LOCAL BOARD GETS HIGH HONOR AT SESSION

Tatum Achievement Trophy Comes Here Result of Organization's Work

Glendale this morning was announced winner of the C. C. C. Tatum "Achievement Cup," one of the outstanding honors of the twentieth annual convention of the California Real Estate association, which ends today in Pasadena. The winning report was rendered by James W. Pearson, secretary of the Glendale Realty board.

This choice convention "plum" is awarded to the board whose achievements for the year, in the opinion of the judges, are the greatest of any board in the association. The items considered by the judges are: accomplishments for board members, thirty points; for the state association, fifteen points; for the national association, five points; for the home community, forty points; and for presentation of report, ten points.

A condition of the contest is that the report must not exceed 1,000 words. San Francisco, which last year won the achievement cup, Leslie Burke, secretary, this year received second place. In 1922, the cup was won by Oakland, R. Porter Giles, secretary; and in 1921, the first year it was offered, it was taken by San Jose, J. W. Macaulay, secretary.

Big Honor for City

Commenting on this signal success won by the Glendale Realty board, President Peter Hanson of that organization states:

"This honor reflects credit on this city throughout the state and has an advertising value money could not buy. It is significant to note that in the four years the cup has been offered, this is the first time it has been captured by a city south of Tehachapi."

C. C. C. Tatum, donor of the cup, is past president of the California Real Estate association and vice-president of the National Association of Real Estate boards.

Submit Report

Following is the report rendered by the judges, in awarding the cup to Glendale:

"California Real Estate Association,

"Mr. Glenn D. Willaman, Secretary-Managing Director,

"Dear Sir: Your judges have examined the reports sent in to the Association for the achievement contest cup and we have the following to submit:

Results Of Balloting In Three States May Set Farm Bloc Fate

Verdicts In South Dakota, Nebraska And Iowa To Have Big Bearing On Opposition To Conservatism

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Oct. 11.—This is a city in which the viewpoint of three neighboring states, South Dakota, Nebraska and Iowa, tend to converge and the amount of La Follette sentiment noticeable is an outstanding characteristic.

It may be because in this region the agricultural depression hit its hardest blows. Possibly it was because land speculation and other economic errors found more victims here than elsewhere. Anyway, there is a distinct anti-administration tone to the situation and President Coolidge is obviously on the defense.

CALVIN COOLIDGE

The result of the balloting in these three states should be examined after election day for reasons other than the tallying of electoral votes. If the combined Democratic-La Follette vote should exceed that of President Coolidge, the senators from this section will feel encouraged to keep up their differences with the administration. Should the president, however, poll a majority of the votes, he can feel that his administration and conservatism generally have been approved. It may have a bearing on the vitality of the farm bloc in the next Congress.

While there is much talk about La Follette, and unquestionably the protest vote will be large, the question now is how big a lead will the Wisconsin senator get in this end of Iowa, where organized labor and farmers are contributing so materially to his cause. The informal polls taken show President Coolidge in the lead, but La Follette a close second. If Western Iowa alone were to decide the result it might be a simple matter to reach a conclusion, but the other sections of the state must be canvassed in order to form an intelligent estimate. The writer proceeds to Des Moines.

There are, however, certain signs in this part of Iowa that Senator Brookhart will not carry with him all the Republican voters and that his outspoken denunciation of the Republican vice presidential nominee will cost him some regular votes he might otherwise have got. Several conservative Republicans, for instance, are openly saying that they intend to vote for Dan Stech, the Democratic candidate for United States senator. If Mr. Brower had kept out of the independent Republican column, undoubtedly Senator Brookhart would have had his lead in the state cut down.

The Republicans who favor Brookhart, on the other hand, are not all of them hostile to President Coolidge. It all depends on how many Republicans can be carried along by Brookhart to the La Follette column. Still the Republican majority in this state is so big that the party would have to be split fifty-fifty to make Iowa go for La Follette, though a coalition of Democrats and La Follette votes might be sufficient to squeeze the state for the third party candidate.

J.W. DAVIS

Most of the well informed men in this end of the state concede that it is a defensive struggle, with the contest so close as to make the outcome largely a matter of conjecture. For one thing, the reaction to the Brookhart attack on Coolidge has not fully developed. The next two weeks may see a distinct cleavage between Brookhart and La Follette on one side and Coolidge and Stech on the other.

John W. Davis' opportunities to carry Iowa lie entirely in a possible change of sentiment in the last weeks of the campaign. Should it become apparent that La Follette is going to carry Iowa, many Republicans may turn their votes to Davis. Almost anything might happen in Iowa.

South Dakota is another close state. The Democrats have an excellent chance there to elect as United States senator U. C. Cherry. Seven candidates are opposing Mr. Cherry. Four of them are for Coolidge and three are Non-partisan leaguers. In a state which has eight candidates for United States senator, any single man who can keep a nucleus together has the best chance to win. That's why Cherry's chances are excellent. The Democratic vote is relatively small, however, and before the end of the campaign, Governor McMaster, a radical who is supporting President Coolidge, more or less perfunctorily, may capture the lead.

R.M. LA FOLLETTE

There is another reason why South Dakota is unique. The third party has had a long start there. As in Minnesota, a farmer-labor party has sprung up. But the Democrats who were forced into third place by the situation in 1920, moved back into second place in 1922 when the Republicans polled about 75,000, the Democrats 55,000 and the third party 40,000 votes. La Follette seems to be assured of a consolidated support, notwithstanding the distributed effort of the seven senatorial candidates.

The race is between La Follette and Coolidge in South Dakota, with the situation so arranged on account of the local interests, that Mr. Coolidge has a fairly good chance of carrying the electoral vote.

William Allen White, independent candidate for governor, is standing Kansas on its ears. Right and left through the state the Emporia editor is campaigning. Drawing enormous crowds, entertaining them with his quaint philosophy and keen humor, and giving the veteran politicians of both the Republican and Democratic parties more worries than they have had in a generation about the state ticket.

Will White has one plank that is paramount. He is against the Ku Klux Klan. And many people who don't think the klan is much of an issue, but who like Bill White will vote for him anyway. It's a typical Kansas year. Nobody knows how the election for governor will go. White may carry the state by 50,000 and he may be snowed under. It's difficult to analyze what an electorate will do which has for the Emporia editor the intense affection that has been manifested on so many occasions.

The chances are against Will White's success if the mathematics of the voting can be accepted. The Democrats are strong in their support of Governor Jonathan Davis, who is running for re-election, while the regular Republicans are sticking to Ben Paulsen.

CONFERENCE AGREES ON PROGRESS IN RADIO

Meeting of Leaders Makes Program for Activities Under Self Rule

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH

For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Out of the tangle of technical and administrative detail of the national radio conference, being whipped into concrete form by federal experts today, has come the ground work of unhampered development of this utility that the public may reap the full benefit of scientific progress in the next year.

This was the judgment of government officials, including Secretary of Commerce Hoover, scientists, newspaper publishers, amateur and equipment manufacturers who "listened in" at the sessions of the conference which closed late yesterday.

Self Government

The conference imposed upon radio another year of "self industrial" government, recommendations were made to the department of commerce for the conduct of wireless communication and expansion, since Congress has not seen fit to adopt regularity legislation.

Noteworthy achievements of the conference were:

First—Approval of the experimental use of the super-power broadcasting stations under strict governmental regulation. Limitation on power of the general broadcast stations maintained.

Second—Betterment of all phases of radio and elimination of impediments to its fullest service planned.

Third—General broadcasting bands extended to include all wave lengths from 200 to 545 meters; new zoning system worked out to create additional channels.

Make Changes

Fourth—Designation of Class B stations changed to Class One, Class C, low power operating at about 360 meters, abolished and required to qualify for higher classes. Class A changed to Classes Two and Three.

Fifth—Five channels instead of two provided for marine use; improving interference situation especially along coast. Ship communication given 600 meters (distress signals only); 660; 730; 875 and 706 meter wave lengths.

Sixth—Amateurs given substantially same wave lengths as last year but allowed great area for operation.

Seventh—Censorship, government or otherwise, definitely condemned.

Oppose Monopoly

Eighth—Interconnection of stations making possible simultaneous broadcasting of public events in all sections of the country approved.

Ninth—Conference "unalterably opposed to any monopoly in broadcasting."

Employment of super-power following the proposal of the Radio Corporation of America to erect a gigantic station that could hurl radio waves from New York to the Pacific coast, or over the Atlantic, was the outstanding question before the conference.

RATE BOOST IS REFUSED EDISON CO.

Rescinding of Order to Save Consumers $1,100,000 In Southern California

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—In an important decision today the State Railroad commission reversed a previous increase in rates to the Southern California Edison company which will mean approximately $1,100,000 saving to Southern California consumers of electricity.

The decision was 3 to 2, with Commissioners Seavey, Shore and Whittlesey signing the decision rescinding the previous rate increase and Commissioners Brundige and Martin dissenting. The company sought the increase due to abnormal drouth conditions and the necessity of producing large amounts of steam generated power in place of hydro-electric power.

Another Press Agent Wants to Marry Jack

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—A report was published in a New York newspaper today that Ann Pennington, the beauteous-kneed dancer, is engaged to be married to Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion. Broadway was wondering how it could be possible, since Ann recently was whispered to have become the bride of Brooke Johns, the theatre and cabaret banjoist. The possibility that the story might be press agentry was not overlooked by Broadway.

Authorities Rule In Favor of La Follette

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 11.—La Follette candidates for presidential electors are entitled to a single column or row on the voting machine as well as upon the paper ballot in New York state. Specialist candidates for presidential electors also are entitled to the same privilege, despite the fact that the names of the candidates for electors are identical in both parties. An opinion to this effect was rendered today by Attorney-General Sherman.

Stones Greet Ku Klux In Trial to Organize

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 11.—A barrage of stones and bottles of ammonia thrown by a mob of nearly 2,000 persons greeted the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan last night when they attempted to organize in this city. BIG DIRIGIBLE SLIGHTLY STRAINED IN MAKING ITS LANDING AT SAN DIEGO

Giant Air Liner Will Not Leave For North Until Repairs Are Complete; Battles Storm En Route to Southern Port

BULLETIN

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 11.—The Shenandoah will leave here tomorrow for Camp Lewis, it was announced this afternoon by Rear-Admiral Moffett. The dirigible will pass over San Francisco tomorrow afternoon or early evening and reach its destination about sundown Monday, Rear-Admiral Moffett said. The damage to the rear struts can be repaired easily today by the dirigible's mechanics, he said.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 11.—The United States navy dirigible Shenandoah will not leave North Island today for Camp Lewis as scheduled, it was announced shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. The explanation was given that the giant air liner was "slightly strained," while being landed on the ground last night and that a delay would be made while a final check was made to insure no danger in crossing mountains en route to Camp Lewis.

It was positively stated the Shenandoah was not badly damaged. It was stated from Captain T. T. Craven's office, commander of the naval air station, a girder in the aft portion of the ship was damaged, though not broken, when the giant liner settled too hard on the rear gondola in striking the earth. It was said the girder was not broken.

Just how long the ship will be delayed was said to be problematical today, but it was thought she would resume her trip to Camp Lewis tomorrow.

Big Dirigible In Fight With Storm on Way South

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 11.—The United States navy rigid dirigible Shenandoah was finally moored to her mast here at 1:02 o'clock this morning after successfully completing her jump from Fort Worth, Texas.

A steady stream of people started to North Island early today to see the big ship as well as attend the aerial spectacle to be staged in honor of the "daughter of the skies." This program started at 8 a. m. and included all kinds of aerial stunts by more than 100 planes.

The Shenandoah, shining in the light of a bright moon, hove into sight here slightly to the northwest at 10:50 o'clock last night. She was riding easily at a 6,000-foot level and making good speed. She then circled widely to the south, silhouetted against the blue black sky, resembling a huge cucumber as she slowly nosed downward.

Officially Greeted

Rear-Admiral Moffett, the first to step to earth, was greeted by Captain T. T. Craven, commander of the naval air station here, and other ranking officers. Commander Zachary Lansdowne, in charge of the Shenandoah, and the officers and members of the crew alighted next and were warmly congratulated by the several hundred persons who had braved the cold night for several hours to see the big ship safely brought to rest here.

A few minutes later 300 blue-

Gorman and Davis were carrying the payroll in a satchel from Edensburg on a Pennsylvania passenger train to the Cambria mine near here.

Two bandits were met by three others at Rexin. As the train stopped there, two bandits forced the engineer at the point of revolvers to take the train to a wooded spot nearby.

When Gorman and Davis resisted the bandits opened fire. Gorman was killed and Davis fell seriously wounded.

The bandits then grabbed the satchel containing the money and ran from the train, escaping in an automobile.

JUDGE LANDIS SENDS HOT CHARGES AT BAN JOHNSON

Commissioner or Head of American League May Have to Quit Baseball as Result of Increasing Bitterness in War

By GEORGE BARRY

For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Baseball is in for a stormy winter session—perhaps the most turbulent of its turbulent history. And some epochal changes may take place in the conduct and personnel of the game before the teams start south in the spring again.

One of these changes may be the retirement of either Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's over-lord, or Byron Bancroft Johnson, head of the American league, from the business. The warfare between the two men has reached such a stage, it became known today, where Judge Landis is beginning to consider whether baseball is big enough to contain both himself and Johnson.

Feeling Grows Worse

It was bitter enough before this conflict between the present czar of the game and the dethroned czar of the American league. It has been intensified a thousandfold by the events leading to the world's series.

Johnson refused to attend the series because he said the Giants were not playing fair. Judge Landis is going to have a showdown.

The series itself, which set a new high record for enthusiasm,

U. S. IS KING IN USE OF PHONES

America Has 63 Per Cent of All Instruments Used Throughout World

United States has sixty-three per cent of all the telephones in the world. In proportion to population this country has ten times as many telephones as the world at large. The average American uses the telephone nine times as much as the average Englishman, and ten times as much as the average Frenchman. There are more telephones in New York City than in the whole of Great Britain and Northern Ireland; more in the city of Chicago than in all of France. In rural telephone development, American stands head and shoulders above the rest of the world.

These and other striking facts, illustrative of this country's unchallenged leadership in the telephone field, are brought out in a recent compilation of telephone statistics of all countries. This study shows that on January 1, 1923, there were 22,904,415 telephones in use throughout the world, of which 14,347,395 were in the United States. Thus the American people, who form but one-sixteenth of the earth's population, have at their service nearly two-thirds of all the telephones in existence.

Europe Lags Behind

Europe, with four times as many people as this country, has only about two-fifths as many telephones. On the date to which these figures relate, there were 5,863,684 telephones in Europe, or but little more than one-quarter of the world's total. All other countries, including the entire Western Hemisphere outside of the United States and Asia, Africa and Oceania as well, had only one-ninth of the total telephones in operation. Of the 1,100,161 telephones added to the wire systems of the world during 1922, 620,670 represented the net growth of the telephone facilities in the United States.

U. S. Leads World

In number of telephones per 100 of population, America's leadership was even more pronounced. There were, on January 1, 1923, 13.1 telephones for every 100 people in the United States, as compared with 3.5 telephones for every 100 people in Germany, 2.3 in Great Britain and Northern Ireland, 1.3 in France and 0.3 in Italy. Although Japan had the best developed telephone system of any Asiatic country, she could boast but 0.9 telephones per 100 inhabitants, even prior to the earthquake of September, 1923. It is significant that those foreign countries have all entrusted the development of their telephone systems to government ownership, whereas in the United States the telephone business has been energetically developed by private initiative.

Telephone systems operated by private enterprise now include seventy-one per cent of the world's total telephones; only 29 per cent being under government ownership. Canada, with 10.4 telephones per 100 people, and Denmark with 8.3 approach nearest to this country in number of telephones per 100 inhabitants.

New York Leads Cities

In absolute numbers New York City, with 1,072,632 telephones on January 1, 1923, was easily first among all the cities of the world. In fact, the American metropolis alone had more telephones than the whole of any foreign country except Germany. New York's telephone development of 18.2 telephones per 100 people far exceeded that of Berlin, 9.3; Paris, 6.3; or London, 6.1. At the same date, Omaha had 28 telephones for every 100 inhabitants; San Francisco, 25.2; Minneapolis, 24.2; Denver, 23; and Washington, 22.8. The only important foreign city with a comparable telephone development was Stockholm with 25.4 telephones per 100 people.

In most foreign countries telephone facilities are even more restricted in the smaller communities than in the large cities. Farmers' telephones are almost unknown in Europe.

Americans Biggest Users

Telephone development has, in many countries, been concentrated principally in the capital cities and large commercial centers. More than one-third of all the British telephones, for example, are in London; over one-third of all the French telephones are in Paris.

Americans appreciate their unique telephone facilities and use the telephone far more than do other nations. During 1922 there were 174 telephone conversations per person in the United States, as against thirty-five in Germany, seventeen in France and eighteen in Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

III—BEARDING BOB IN HIS HOME STATE

By A. S. HALL
Of The Evening News Staff.

While Robert La Follette, commonly known now as "Fighting Bob," is busy touring the country with his avowed intention to stump his way into the White House, his political fences back in his home state, Wisconsin, are badly in need of repair.

Not that Bob did not leave the fences in good shape when he left for Washington before starting his oratorical journey. Bob saw they were in first class shape when he departed for the east, but things have changed at home during his absence, the writer discovered in a recent visit to Wisconsin cities.

Those asserted hand-picked delegates Bob is alleged to have sent to the Republican state convention several weeks ago, and tc have engineered things in such a manner that some of them were chosen, are not going to fare so well as many imagine, if the theories advanced by those "in the know" in Wisconsin are to be taken seriously.

Opposition Invades

Things might have turned out better, the political sages admit, if Charles G. Dawes had crossed Milwaukee off his speaking list. For ever since Dawes turned loose his oratorical guns in Milwaukee the middle of last month, things haven't been the same in Wisconsin.

Dawes addressed over 9000 persons in the Milwaukee municipal auditorium, and there were several thousand more waiting outside for a chance to get in. Some of these several thousand who were in the overflow crowd did manage to get in the hall before the meeting was over.

They are still talking about that masterful speech of Dawes all over Wisconsin. The Republican vice presidential nominee started in by paying tribute to the personality of the Wisconsin senator. Perhaps it was a desire to get in right at the start, and perhaps it was just dues, but Dawes opened with a few glowing words about La Follette.

Sentiment Changes

There is no need of reviewing the speech or what happened at the auditorium that night. Suffice to say that as Dawes proceeded with his address he brought home to the Wisconsin people just what Bob's ideas and plans would mean to the United States if they were put into effect. He showed where La Follette's doctrines are aggressive and dangerous.

At this point several hundred faithful La Follette followers in the back of the auditorium departed, but their places were soon filled by those who were clamoring on the outside for a chance to get into the packed building. The sentiment of Wisconsin people changed that night, political leaders declare, and has swung from La Follette to Coolidge and Dawes.

There is an undercurrent of political unrest in Wisconsin today, observations show. Citizens of that state who feel and who firmly believe that the platform adopted at Cleveland when La Follette was nominated will test the citizenship of Wisconsin. The sentiment of the people, perhaps, is best expressed in the words of James F. Delaney, of Milwaukee, a keen student of politics.

"State Being Tested"

"Clear minded and well thinking men feel that Wisconsin is being tested," Mr. Delaney told the writer. "The eyes of the nation are upon Wisconsin and our actions at the polls next November will be watched closer than any state's action at the polls have ever been watched. Of course, every citizen of the state takes a just pride in the fact that Wisconsin has a man in the presidential race, but for those who are anxious to see the government established by our forefathers maintained and not upset, are not going to let pride sway their better judgments.

"It is not Bob, understand, that the level-headed people of Wisconsin are afraid of; it is the group he has taken up with in his desire to get into the White House, coupled with the ideas put forth by this group. La Follette with any other backing or party platform, I dare say, would get the support of all Wisconsin."

There is a strong political feeling in Wisconsin this year. Even the most casual observation brings out this fact. Men who have witnessed numerous campaigns remark that there has never been as much stir and excitement or as much interest in politics, as are evident in Wisconsin today.

Atmosphere Charged

Wherever the traveler goes, it seems as though the atmosphere is charged with the feeling existing in the state, until one is also afraid to mention any political candidate besides La Follette. So intense is this condition that the stranger is constantly on the lookout for an open demonstration, and casts somewhat apprehensive glances about him wherever he goes.

Politics are discussed everywhere in Wisconsin. The traveler hears political arguments advanced on the station platform as soon as he alights from his train. More political talk in the restaurants. He hears it in the lobby of his hotel, and even after he retires, snatches of conversations dealing with parties and platforms float over the transom of his room. Aboard the train, as he is leaving the state, he hears traveling men talking about—no, not about business or sales made at the last stop—they talk about the presidential race.

The women of Wisconsin are showing a keen interest in the coming election. Many women are firm in their announcements they are going to vote for "Fighting Bob." Others are of the "I don't know" type. Yet they will vote, and a record vote among the women of Wisconsin is expected this year.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Oct. 11.—Politics has entered the pulpit here—or rather, the pulpit has entered politics. Rev. E. Morgan Isaac, pastor of the Congregational church, bids fair to win renown throughout the state for his Get-Out-and Vote club, whose slogan is "fifty million voters who vote in 1924."

"There are many clubs in the land but one more is needed," says Rev. Isaac, "and that is the Get-Out-and Vote club. If the same per cent vote this year that voted in 1920, about one-half of the fifty millions will elect our state and national officers. That means we have about 50 per cent of our voters who are utterly indifferent to who runs this great democracy.

If it be true that political bosses and special interests dominate our government, as it is often asserted, then it must be so because the common people want it so.

The Los Angeles board of education has granted the request of the Rockdale P.-T. A. for permission to use the school building two afternoons a week until October 17, to hold rehearsals in preparation for the pageant to be given October 17 and 18, to raise funds for the nutrition department of the association, states Miss Shephard, principal of the Rockdale school.

Mrs. J. C. Reiter, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce until the new directors are installed, requests that local residents who are members of the organization take advantage of their rights to vote for the twelve new directors who will guide the organization for the next terms. The final count will be made on October 13, she states.

Mrs. E. C. Hobbs, who has spent the summer in Idlewild, Big Bear, etc., for the benefit of her health, has returned.

BUS SYSTEM OF NATION EXPANDS

Street Railway Companies Solve Transportation Problems Easily

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of the Glendale Evening News. Copyright, 1924

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 11.—The majority of the electric street railway men of the United States have abandoned the "bust the busses" policy and have decided to gain a jump on competitors by adopting the bus method of transportation to supplement their own systems. This fact has become evident as a result of discussions of the American Electric Railway association now in convention here. They have set down as a basic principle, that the greatest thing a public service corporation has to sell the public is service, and they are going to sell service whether it be by bus or street car.

This decision has a direct bearing on practically every American citizen. In the first place, every inhabitant is a user of street cars to a greater or less degree. Street car companies will have sold well over sixteen billion rides to these inhabitants before December 31. One person out of every eighty-five is a part owner in an electric railway, according to statisticians of the association. The average holding of these stockholders is about $4000. These figures do not include those indirectly interested through life insurance company funds invested in electric railway securities.

State Lines Expand

As a result of the determination outlined above, street railway companies are going ahead with heavy programs of expansion and betterments. For the early part of this year, an average of $3,400,000 a day was invested in public utility securities. Much of this came from customers of the companies involved and the electric railway improvements now in progress are being financed from similar sources.

In Southern California alone orders now placed for equipment and materials necessary for expansion total $10,000,000 while in central and northern California, new equipment orders approximate $12,000,000.

"The work must go on," said Britton I. Budd, president of the association. "That means new capital must be found. At least a part of this new capital must come from the sale of junior securities which the public will readily absorb when it knows the proceeds are to be applied to purchase of new equipment and improvement of service. If a company is really serving a community it will find a ready response."

Operate 2000 Buses

Mr. Budd added that 150 electric railway companies now were operating about 2000 buses, and that that number probably would be greatly increased in the immediate future. About 25 per cent of the buses purchased this year, he added, had been bought by electric railway companies. "Where there is a public need for bus service," he concluded, "we should supply it even if we must conduct it for a time at a loss, because we gain in public good will by giving the public the service it wants."

Bus manufacturers who were consulted today agreed with the street car men that the electric street car was indispensable in handling the traffic of cities. They pointed out that a bus service in congested city streets comprehensive enough to handle all traffic would involve so many vehicles as to jam the thoroughfares from curb to curb and make movement so slow as to be impracticable.

Replace Rural Lines

They declared, however, that interurban bus transportation had a prosperous future before it. In the hands of the electric railway companies, they asserted, buses would replace rural electric lines which now were operated at little or no profit. These lines in general were built to develop territory and provide feeders for main lines rather than to carry a heavy volume of passengers and this work in future undoubtedly will be done through the medium of bus lines.

Street railway men apparently are far more concerned over the promotion of bus companies than over the competition after they have been put into operation. They assert that in many cases bus companies have been formed for purely speculative purposes or for the purpose of sale to the competing street car lines. The extent of the expansion program may be judged by the fact that while 2882 electric railway cars with a value of $26,184,713 were built in this country last year, this number will be greatly exceeded the present year.

RAT'S BLOOD MAY SAVE AFRICANS

Chicago Physician Has Cure For Sleeping Sickness Among Negro Race

By O. L. SCOTT
Special Correspondent of the Glendale Evening News. Copyright, 1924

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—A few injections of rat blood into one of the sleepy black boys of darkest Africa may spring an important surprise for the hordes of that continent, as well as for scattered sufferers here.

If rat blood won't do it, there's nothing yet known to science that will. And if it does do it, there's likely to be a hot time down among the Africans when the rejuvenation takes place.

Sleeping sickness—the deathly results of drowsiness—has struck the dark continent with a severity that is undermining a large share of the population. It has reached this country in a few instances but, although highly contagious, has been restricted because of absence of the disease carrying tsetse fly that infests Africa.

Chicago Doctor's Find

Dr. W. H. Taliaferro, of the University of Chicago, now has discovered the surprise potion that may put African drowsiness to rout, and it's his work with rats that will probably inject new life into that continent. The injection will consist of plain everyday rat blood, and is to be made as soon as good working specimens can be located.

"We have found that rats are immune to sleeping sickness," Dr. Taliaferro explains. "There are evidences that they produce certain immune bodies in their blood that may have an important bearing on the eradication of the disease. Just what the curative effects are, we have not yet established."

That part of the experiment will take place on the negroes themselves. The doctor is not willing to predict the effect the idea of rat blood injections will have on the natives of Africa. These same natives with their hookworm afflictions—and other ailments are already the cause of international troubles.

Peculiar to Africa

Their disease difficulties, it seems, are not the same that confront their brethren in this country. The variety of sleepiness that is causing hundreds of thousands of deaths on that continent is not the same variety that has put in an appearance here. It is of two varieties down there, gambian and rhodesian. This country has another kind that does not enter into the rat blood discovery.

The whole thing shows its importance when it is realized that Germany, whose scientists claim to have discovered a cure for the gambian variety, is using that cure as a club to get back some of its colonies. Here enters the rat blood finding at the University of Chicago, which offers a toxin for both the gambian and rhodesian varieties. It may put an end to the German claims.

So great has the death rate been from the disease in Africa that in one community of 300,000 it is reported that 200,000 have died from its effects within a short time. The tsetse fly and other insects are carrying the sleeping disease over the continent with an increasing speed.

Rat Blood Cure

Rat blood may stem the tide. All that remains is to get the immune bodies out of the life fluid of the rodents and in some way get them injected into the blood of the blacks. Once that's done there's expected to be a great revival in Africa.

What else might happen, once a black man takes on rat blood has not been a subject of conjecture at the Chicago university laboratory. If it will cure him of his sleepiness, this life fluid of rodents may break him of imaginary hookworm ailments and make a new man out of him.

Until it does Dr. Taliaferro is making few claims for his rat blood discovery. He wants it to prove itself under fire first. That test is coming as soon as experiments can be made in Africa.

Just how the accident happened is not known.

Mr. and Mrs. Howeth were immediately summoned to the Pasadena hospital and last night surgeons operated in order to relieve the pressure on the brain from the fracture. Reports this morning stated that the extent of the injury can not be determined for twenty-four hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Howeth and their son have countless Glendale friends who will regret to learn of the accident. Herbert was at one time a pupil at the Columbus Avenue school.

First aid was rendered by Dr. O. A. Dieterich. No damage was done to the garage, Chief A. H. Lankford reported.

1400 ATTEND REALTORS' BANQUET

Glendale Represented by 64 At Spectacular Affair Held In Pasadena

The twentieth annual convention of the California Real Estate association reached its zenith last night with a spectacular, monumental banquet at the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena. President Robert A. Swink of the realty board of that city presided. Governor Friend W. Richardson and Speaker Frank Merriam of the California state assembly headed a long list of distinguished guests.

There were present sixty-four representatives of the Glendale realty board, ranging down two sides of a long table, at whose head sat President Peter Hanson of the board. The Glendale delegation was easily distinguishable amid the giant throng by reason of the smart blue and orange caps, and was plainly heard throughout the proceedings by reason of the distinctive whistles, good singing and loud cheering.

Guests Number 1400

Early in the program, President Henry P. Barbour of the California Real Estate association, one of the toastmasters, announced that over 1400 people were present in the banquet hall, making it not only twice the size of last year's annual banquet in Sacramento, but, according to the management of the hotel, the largest banquet ever held at this hostelry.

As the hours wore away and the time drew near when the winner of the Fred E. Reed "Home Town" trophy for the best five-minutes talk would be announced, the Glendale delegation grew tense, for President Peter Hanson of the Glendale realty board was conceded to have at least equalled last year's performance which won him second place at the 1923 convention, when on Thursday night he extolled the glories of Glendale, in competition with a score of orators from other California cities.

Comment

By GIL A. COWAN

Great plays of dramatic moment have been presented to audiences numbering in the hundreds and emotional feeling gripped each and every person as the hero rose from the dregs of despair to triumphant heights.

In Washington, capital of this country, there was enacted yesterday a human drama which brought tears, cheers, heart throbs to 35,000 and more people attending the final game of the Washington-New York Giants world series.

Walter Johnson, Kansan and Californian, peerless pitcher for seventeen years, who twice drank defeat at the hands of McGraw batsmen, went into the game for "Bucky" Harris' Solons with the score tied, 3 and 3. It is a story now twice told.

In Glendale 3000 fans stood in front of The Glendale Evening News office to hear the International News Service leased wire account play by play. Almost to a man they held a silent prayer that Johnson might win.A ndd he did, in four innings of grueling circumstances wherein determination on the part of his teammates, as opposed to fatal eagerness of his opponents, saw history's most remarkable sporting drama brought to a close with Washington winner of the game and series.

Johnson, two days before, was painted as the man who had lived too many years to taste of victory. Johnson, the strikeout king, saw three other stalwart younger pitchers fade out with the setting sun over Virginia hills.

And in that growing dusk he went to the mound with a cross upon his back. His was the burden few could bear. But his score of years in baseball served him well. Everything he knew, every ounce of strength he could muster went into those last thirty minutes of play.

Shadows, glimmering lights on yon capitol hill, and a frenzied throng, described in no less term than hysterical. The wonderful Walter unloosed his speed ball. In the dusk that was the batsmen simply could not see it as they had in innings of brighter days.

On two fumbles Washington won, not to discount the timely hits of Ruel and McNeely, and Johnson brought to a close a career that will live in history.

Stranger of the skies, the Shenandoah, giant dirigible, today touring over this section of California, came near disaster in the peculiar atmospheric conditions existing late yesterday over the southland.

Glendale was visited by a dust storm of cyclonic tendencies, followed by scattered rainfall, dark clouds, a rainbow and sunset colors of beauty seldom equalled. It was a sight to be seen which mere words fail to describe.

Air transportation is subject to weather and yet the Shenandoah's second encounter with a storm shows that great strides have been made since Roy Knabenshue was flying his baby blimp over Glendale nine years ago.

Another good shopping day in Glendale! According to J. C. Royle's correspondence to Consolidated Press association, which serves this paper, retail sales are picking up all over the country.

Glendale merchants should be prepared for a period of prosperity.

In the opinion of the writer, there is no reason to fear the coming national election as a disturbing influence.

HISTORY OF STATE IS RELATED

New Englander Tells World Lots About California As He Sees It

California, from the beginning, is graphically "press agented" by an imaginative New Englander, correspondent for The Portland (Maine) Express, and a copy of this "History of California," reprinted in The Kansas City Times, has been brought to the attention of The Glendale Evening News by a subscriber.

The news herewith gives Glendalians an opportunity to enjoy snatches from the native New Englander's jottings about California. For instance:

"California is bounded on the north by British Columbia; on the west by the Hawaiian Islands; on the south by the Panama canal; on the east by the Dixie highway; on the top by heaven ,that is, by daylight, after dark it has no limits.

All Nations Help

"California was discovered by the Spanish; settled by the Yankees; built by the Japanese; worked by the Chinese and fought by the Irish.

"California's first discovery has always been in doubt; some local historians claiming the Garden of Eden was located in the southwestern corner of Golden Gate park, just back of the monkey house. Others, more modest, give the date of its discovery at the time that Noah landed the ark on the top of Mt. Shasta. But the best and most authentic accounts give the year 1603, when Sir Francis Drake sailed in through the Golden Gate and started the St. Francis hotel.

"San Francisco, in the years that followed, had a most marvelous growth, until today, taking in Berkeley, Oakland, Sausalito, Mill Valley, Petaluma, Alcatraz Island and the Farrallones, it is the largest city in the state. Los Angeles, in taking in all the rest of the state, is still larger. In 1901 San Diego was made the 116th ward of the city.

'Quakes' Forbidden

"In 1855 a law was passed forbidding earthquakes inside the city limits. In 1857 a barber shop was started, and the first Californian had his hair cut and a shave. San Francisco has more restaurants named for dogs than any other city in the world.

"The city of Los Angeles is a seaport, situated eighteen miles from the sea. The only wonder is that thy have not run it through to the Atlantic.

And the Climate

"Although it is never referred to by the natives, Los Angeles has a wonderful climate. You can melt, freeze and drown in the same spot on the same day. They have but two kinds of weather, perfect and unusual.

"There are more beautiful women in Los Angeles than in any other city on earth. But they all come from somewhere else.

"Owing to the climate, there are several moving picture studios in Los Angeles (they are in Hollywood, but Los Angeles takes the credit for all the good coming from them and blames Hollywood for the bad)."

CONTRACTORS TO FINISH BORE AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

Modern Methods of Constructing Inter-City Tunnel Enable Working Crews to Pierce Crown Hill With Amazing Speed

By GIL A. COWAN
Of the Evening News Staff

A year from now—365 days if you count them all—Glendale commuters will be riding into metropolis Los Angeles through the Pacific Electric subway now in course of construction from First street and Glendale boulevard to the Hill street station.

At the present rate of progress this tunnel job, which is amazing even its own engineers, will be complete in fourteen months, or four months ahead of schedule. It was started last May.

Figures have been quoted before regarding the speed being made, so suffice it to say that the tube will not be a great "bore" as was the Second street tunnel. Reasons for this may be attributed to the modern methods employed by Twohy Brothers, the contracting firm.

Built Like Tube

Instead of plastering the walls, or making them water-tight with tile, the Glendale-Hollywood subway is being built on the same principles as the Hudson river tube in greater New York.

In the words of the layman, a smaller tunnel, known to engineers as a "drift," is pushed through Crown hill above the great bore which will accommodate the speeding electric cars. Working from shafts, the big hole is dug with explosives and left like a gaping wound.

Compressed air operating cement guns under terrific pressure are taken into the tube and wall up the hollow space with a solid ring of man-made rock of ages which will not crack or fall or permit subterranean seepage except for cataclysmic disaster overcoming the terrain.

Seek New Cars

Again, the smaller bore above comes into use by providing ventilation, safe power transmission and ready access for workmen to any one section of the subway after it is placed in service.

Only a year and the pulsing life of Glendale and Hollywood and the San Fernando valley will be carried on through this tunnel

Conference Officers Named by Bible Class

Officers to serve during the present conference year, were elected at the meeting of the Men's Bible class of the First Methodist church held in the class room last night. Following is a list of the officers: W. F. Tower, president; S. A. Trowbridge, vice president; John T. Bruss, secretary; W. A. Olmsted, treasurer, and Rev. Edward Hoskyn, teacher of the class. Plans were made to canvass every member of the church over 45 years old and not now a member of the Sunday school, for membership in the class. It is expected that the membership will be doubled. The class study for Sunday will be the "Sermon on the Mount."

Clubwomen Emphasize Importance of Vote

The responsibility of the American voter, particularly the American woman voter, was stressed yesterday at the second presidents' council of the Los Angeles district, California Federation of Women's clubs, at the Los Angeles Ebell clubhouse, Mrs. Charles H. Toll of Glendale, president, presiding. The morning was devoted to a roundtable on voting. After luncheon the time was given over to the interests of a group of the departments of the federation work.

Glendale was well represented at the council. From the Women's Parliamentary Law club were Mesdames Harry Greenwalt, R. N. Stryker, S. L. Martinez and Nichols. The Tuesday Afternoon club sent Mesdames A. H. Montgomery, John Robert White, Jr.; C. O. Kling, Daniel Campbell. Mrs. C. M. Turck represented the La Crescenta Women's club, of which she is president.

Daily Greeting To News Readers

Yesterday now is a part of forever
Bound up in a sheaf which God holds tight
With glad days, and sad days, and bad days, which never Shall visit us more with their bloom and their blight,
Their fullness of sunshine or sorrowful night.
—Susan Coolidge.

STUDY THE CANDIDATES

Environment has a great deal to do with the attitude that people assume in a political campaign. Those who at the time of the nomination of the party tickets were associating with Coolidge supporters have discussed the question since that time and have had their views strengthened by those who hold the same opinions. Those who were thrown among the followers of La Follette naturally have been made to believe in his good points and have had the shortcomings of the Republican and Democratic candidates emphasized. The same thing is true of those who move in an environment where Davis and Bryan are the popular candidates.

This is not true in all cases, of course, for many people read and consider these questions for themselves very honestly and intelligently. But all too many people rely upon what someone else tells them.

Our country today is facing a crisis, and all true citizens are under obligation to analyze the principles of the parties and the candidates and, irrespective of the opinions of neighbors and politicians, come to their own conclusions as to what is for the best interests of the country as a whole.

Study the political and business career of each of the candidates, learn what great questions they have supported during their term of service, also what great questions they have opposed. Consider carefully the effect of a radical change in our Constitution and our form of government.

Never in the history of our country has any president, not excepting Roosevelt, shown such a spirit of independence and unselfish devotion to the country that President Coolidge has manifested. Expediency has not entered into his official acts. Attemps have been made by his enemies to connect him with scandal, but they have been unsuccessful because entirely unfounded.

It is the decision of many old-time Democrats who have the highest regard for Mr. Davis and Mr. Bryan to vote the Republican ticket this year, thinking this is the only way to guard against chaos in government and to continue the business confidence that makes possible our present prosperity.

Let us consider this question carefully in the month that remains before election. After that what we may think can have no effect.

ENCOURAGING CRIME

The Los Angeles police captain who, in an address before the Southern California Academy of Criminology, stated that "Criminology is the bunk," said a mouthful, to continue his elegant style of diction.

Captain Plummer may be prejudiced, but there are many who will agree with him that some who are making a study of the science of criminology are doing more harm than good in protecting those who should be punished. Many will agree, also, that if "little kids" sent to court for burglary were given "a damned good licking" it might be more effective in making good citizens of them than the methods that are used.

Criminologists are charged by this officer with destroying the respect of the people for the courts and for law by delays in bringing criminals to justice. Sympathy for the criminal is all right up to a certain point, but when it becomes maudlin and tends to make crime easy and attractive it is time to draw the line.

This officer may have exaggerated and have been offensively blunt, but his remarks should give the eminent scientists comprising the Academy of Criminology something to think about.

SERFDOM IN AMERICA

Refuting the charge that the people of America are suffering "economic and industrial serfdom," Chauncey Depew, veteran American statesman, says: "There never has been at any time in the history of the world and its governments less serfdom than today. The best examples are that every prominent person in every work has climbed from the lowest rung in the ladder up to the top. Take Coolidge, a farm boy—and on a poor farm at that—and now President of the United States, having in the meanwhile filled many positions of great importance and responsibility."

Mr. Depew goes on to give other instances of men in high positions steadily climbing upward because of superior ability. Everyone can think of many men and women both of national renown and within their own circle of acquaintances who have overcome obstacles and climbed the ladder of success. The only serfdom in this country is lack of ambition and fear of hard work.

THE ART OF LIVING

A number of people were discussing "the art of living," and some one said that this consists in making as much play as possible out of all we do. What better philosophy of life could be advanced? Play is natural in childhood, but when we come to adult years we consciously or unconsciously try to stifle our love for it.

Work is a game to the one who loves it and even drudgery can be made bearable if approached in the right way. It is the state of mind that counts, after all.

In the light of the immensity of the universe we humans are rather small and queer and unimportant, and we should not take ourselves too seriously. We strive for supremacy in so many things that do not count. Why not try to become proficient in the art of living?

CHRISTMAS IS COMING

This is the time of year to take out of cold storage the New Year resolution to prepare for Christmas early this year. The advent of Indian summer weather and winter rains reminds us that Santa Claus will soon be here, too. Time passes very quickly, and in a very little while the stores will be decorated in Christmas colors and will be displaying their holiday stocks. This is a good time to renew that resolution to conserve your energy and that of others by eliminating the hectic and frantic last-minute rush to buy gifts. Make out a list now of those you wish to remember and check off the name as you make or buy a gift. Order your Christmas cards now and you will not have to worry about getting them in time. You will enjoy Christmas more and better realize its true meaning if you begin to prepare for it now.

Why worry? Seventy-five per cent of our troubles never happen and seventy-five per cent of our ailments need no treatment.

ANOTHER TWISTER OUT KANSAS WAY

Alienist Testimony

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The fatuity of expert testimony was again demonstrated in the Leopold-Loeb-Frank case.

One lawyer said there are three kinds of liars: Plain liars, fancy liars and expert witnesses.

The very fact of paying a witness makes his testimony of doubtful value.

Witnesses should be called in, if necessary, by the court and they should be paid by neither side, so as not to influence their opinion.

As a matter of course, no side would select and pay for a witness unless they were assured of the nature of his testimony in the first place.

It is doubtful whether, in any serious case, expert testimony has been of any value or assistance in ascertaining the truth and it has often been of assistance in obscuring it.

Let the court employ expert witnesses if necessary and let their opinions be impartially given. Then they will be worth something. As it is at present, they are worth nothing. Expert testimony on one side of the case can always be balanced by expert testimony on the other side.

Unfortunately, it is the instinct of Anglo-Saxons to settle their disputes by some sort of conflict. The idea of the impartial tribunal is not acceptable to our race. The two parties in litigation set up lawyers to fight each other, the judge is the umpire only and the spectators are the witnesses.

The result of the trial is not determined by the facts in the case, but by the ability of the lawyer.

The French system is different. The accused person is examined independently by the judge of instruction before he goes to trial. There is something to be said in favor of that.

Horoscope

This is read by astrologers as an uncertain and changeable day, for Mercury veers from benefic to malefic aspect, while Neptune is adverse.

Under this sway it may be most unfortunate to enter into any sort of written agreement, for regret will probably follow the signing of contracts.

During this planetary rule there may be much to inspire confidence and then to disappoint, and for this reason it is wise to defer important decisions of every sort.

Newspaper sensations appear to be indicated and scandals may be uncovered at this time which have a far-reaching effect.

There is a sign making for instability of opinion regarding public affairs and frequent rises and declines in popular favor for men in public life.

Mild and calm weather may be looked for until late in the month, when unexepected storms of unusual violence may take place.

The partial eclipse of the Sun of August 30, which was read as presaging the death of a ruler and to foreshadow a great calamity will be remembered within the week, if the seers are to be believed.

Neptune rising and Mars setting indicates sedition among the people of this country. Internal difficulties are prophesied and there may be clashes that are serious.

Bitter discussion over religious and educational issues will be numerous even after the election, it is foretold, for a holy war is predicted.

Great waste of public money in Great Britain will be charged to the government, which will face big problems.

Railway transportation will show good returns at this time, if indications are rightly interpreted.

Many marriages of note will take place before the new year, which is to be eventful and memorable in a special way.

Persons whose birth date it is may have perplexities due to legal papers, but the year should be fairly fortunate.

Children born on this day may be rather difficult to rear, but they should be able to win the best things in life.

ON 20,000-MILE VOYAGE

Submarine K-26 of the British navy has just completed a voyage of 20,000 miles, the longest on record made by a submarine. It took eight months to complete the trip and officers and crew lived aboard the undersea vessel all of the time. Everything that was required to sustain the crew was carried on the submarine.

Today's Poem

To One Who Would Make a Confession

Oh! leave the past to bury its own dead.
The past is naught to us, the present all.
What need of last year's leaves to strew Love's bed,
What need of ghosts to grace a festival.
I would not, if I could, those days recall,
Those days not ours. For us the feast is spread,
The lamps are lit, and music plays withal.
Then let us love and leave the rest unsaid.
This island is our home. Around it roar
Great gulfs and oceans, channels, straits and seas,
What matter in what wreck we reached the shore,
So we both reached it We can mock at these.
Oh! leave the past, if past indeed there be;
I would not know it; I would know but thee.
—Wilfred Blunt.

PICKING ON THE IRISH

An Irishman coming out of ether in the ward after an operation exclaimed audibly:

"Thank God! That's over!"

"Don't be too sure," said the man in the next bed. "They left a sponge in me and had to cut me open again." And the patient on the other side said, "Why, they had to open me, too, to find one of their instruments."

Just then the surgeon who had operated on the Irishman stuck his head in the door and yelled, "Has anybody seen my hat?"

Pat fainted.

Who's Who

The sudden crushing of the recent revolt in Brazil by President Arthur De Silva Bernardes, brings this executive into the limelight once more. His masterful guidance of Latin-America's most powerful country has made him one of the dominating political figures of South America.

He is regarded as the strongest and most efficient president Brazil has ever had. He is the most hated and most liked man in his country today.

But these things do not make headlines. Here are some things that might:

Bernardes is the youngest president Brazil has ever had.

Bernardes is the first president of Brazil who had to go to work bofre he was 14, who worked his way through college, who fought every inch of a brilliant career in much the same way that thousands of Americans have battled their way from humble beginnings to the top of the ladder.

President Bernardes began his career in his native state of Minas Geraes, one of the wealthiest of the Brazilian union. His father was an eminent lawyer and a former colonel of the federal army who had lost his fortune, so that his son had to go to work to celebrate his thirteenth birthday.

His first job was a clerkship in a store in the little city of Coimbra. Promotion came rapidly, and at 21 he was manager of his firm.

In 1901, just thirteen years after he had taken his first job, he went back to Vicosa to practice law. Six months later he was offered the position of district attorney, but declined. Three years later, in 1904, young Bernardes was elected president of the local branch of the state Republican party, and from that moment his fame began to spread through Brazil.

The reputation that he gained as finance officer of his native state swept him into the governorship in 1918. He continued his energetic reforms and became president of Brazil in 1922.

Do You Know

Perambulators with their human cargoes have become so numerous in some of the large department stores that checking or parking systems such as accommodate autoists, have been provided for shopping mothers who have to bring their young with them. An attendant gives the mother a numbered check and takes care of the infants. The cost is borne by the stores.

Making Presidents

By H. Irving King

IN 1848

James Knox Polk, the "dark horse" president, had been speaker of the National House of Representatives and governor of Tennessee. His predecessor, President Tyler, a few days before he went out of office, signed the act for the annexation of Texas—and that meant war with Mexico. To have carried out the clause of the Democratic platform demanding the "whole territory of Oregon" and the campaign cry of "Fifty-four Forty or Fight" would have meant at the same time a war with England. So the Oregon matter was compromised by the establishment of the present boundary line. Small as had been the vote for Birney in the last election it was significant as showing that the abolitionists were increasing and organizing in the north, and the annexation of Texas, as it meant an increase in the National slave area, increased the abolitionist vote and sentiment. The Democrats held a convention to nominate a successor to Tyler in May of 1848, and nominated Lewis Cass of Michigan for president and William O. Butler of Kentucky for vice-president. Cass had served with distinction in the war of 1812, had been a territorial governor, secretary of war, United States senator and minister to France. What principally won him the nomination was his declaration in favor of the acquisition of Mexican territory and against the "Wilmot proviso" which sought to prohibit slavery in the acquired territory. The Whig convention met in June and nominated General Zachary Taylor of Louisiana—"Old Zach"—who had won such renown in the war with Mexico, for president; and Millard Fillmore of New York for vice-president. Both parties sought to keep the slavery question in the background; but it was not to be ignored. Running on a platform which demanded the "rescue of the Federal government from the control of the slave power" Van Buren, nominated by two conventions, appeared in the field and at election polled nearly 300,000 popular votes. General Taylor was elected, with 360,000 popular votes to 1,220,544 for Cass. In the electoral college Taylor had 163 votes to 127 for Cass. A curious fact about the election was that in many sections where the anti-slavery sentiment was strong the people refused to vote for Taylor because he was a slave owner, but voted for Cass in spite of his pro-slavery tincture in preference to Van Buren running on an anti-slavery platform; and Van Buren saved the day for Taylor, the slave-owner, by drawing to him the Free Soil Democrats.

BUILDING AND ROAD PROGRAMS POINT TO PROGRESS

COLLECTIONS SET HIGH RECORD

Internal Revenue Receipts For September Exceed Previous Months

Receipts of internal revenue taxes for September established new records in increases in collections, according to a monthly report sent to Washington today by Collector Rex B. Goodcell.

Sales of documentary stamps incidate that real estate transfers in Southern California during September amounted to the staggering sum of $49,577,000.

That country clubs are flourishing is shown by tax receipts in dues amounting to $55,846, an increase over September of last year of 78 per cent.

Collections of the tax on capital stock totaled $421,975, as against $199,984 for September, 1923, a gain of 111 per cent.

Liquor Taxes Gain

Receipts of liquor taxes increased 43 per cent, while the retail dealers' tax in sculpture and paintings advanced 54 per cent.

An increase of 44 per cent was recorded in collections of the special tax on automobiles that are used for passenger traffic, and a gain of 44 per cent was shown in receipts of the tax on the use of pleasure boats.

Revised figures show that income tax collections were $9,269,437, compared with $7,454,962 for the corresponding month of last year, an increase of $1,814,475, or more than 24 per cent. Total collections were $10,115,892, as against $8,403,704, a gain of $1,712,188, or 20 per cent.

Committee Working on Plans for 1925 Meet

Preparations are already going forward for the next annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, to be held in Detroit, Michigan, June 23-25, 1925. Charles G. Edwards of New York, president elect of the national association, has been made chairman of the association's committee which will have general charge of the convention plans. Other members of the committee are H. U. Nelson, executive secretary of the association, and Guy S. Greene, president of the Detroit Real Estate board. Mr. Greene has also been appointed general chairman of the Detroit board's special convention committee, which will have charge of the entertainment side of the meeting and will arrange details in offering the hospitality of the Detroit board and the city of Detroit to the convention visitors.

Details of Appraisal Work Given In Volume

The exact processes through which it has become possible for scientific appraisers working independently to appraise the value of the land under a modern skyscraper with such a degree of accuracy that their estimates will correspond with a dispersion of only 5 per cent or less are the subject of a complete study on "The Appraisal of Real Estate," by Frederick M. Babcock, which has just been published by the Macmillan Co. The book is the third volume in the standard course in real estate outlined by the National Association of Real Estate Boards in joint conference with the United Y. M. C. A. Schools and the Institute for Research in Land Economics and Public Utilities.

The first book on the series "Principles of Real Estate Practice," by Ernest M. Fisher, published last fall, is now in its third printing. The second, "Elements of Land Economics," by Dr. Richard T. Theatre Trade Heavy, Tax Receipts Reveal

Four million persons attended motion picture theatres and other places of entertainment in Southern California that charge admission prices of more than 50 cents, during August. September receipts of amusement taxes which cover August business as announced by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex B. Goodcell show that $165,280 was collected. Under the new revenue act the tax was repealed on all admissions of 50 cents or less. Even with this tremendous loss in revenue the amusement tax for August showed a decreased of only $104,321 as compared with August of last year when all admissions over 10 cents were taxed.

The September tax receipts indicate that 4,141,850 persons attended, during August, motion picture and other theatres that charge admission prices of more than 50 cents. The tax paid shows that $2,203,700 was spent by the public in visiting theatres charging more than 50-cent admission prices. Collector Goodcell said that the small decrease in the amusement tax receipts in the face of the loss of revenue from all houses charging admission of 50 cents or less, indicated a general increase in attendance at all classes of motion picture houses.

DETROIT, Oct. 11.—Business as reflected by carloads in the Pere Marquette railroad territory is showing an upward tendency. Traffic representatives predict heavy fall activity in the movement of crops.

CITIES PLAN TO BOOST SUBURBS

New York's Report on Work To Conserve Country Area, Is Basis

The extent to which far-sighted communities are undertaking not only city planning but regional planning, the planning of suburban and country areas to conserve their natural resources and develop them along the lines of highest community interest, is indicated in the returns of a survey covering city and suburban planning in the state of New York which has just been completed by the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards, which has consistently advocated careful city planning, sees in the New York report the indication of a more general awakening of public interest in the application of planning principles to extra-municipal territory, to the territory between growing cities, and to states as units of community planning.

Report Covers 26 Cities

The New York report covers twenty-six cities, exclusive of New York City, whose growth relationship to its surrounding territory is being studied by the special committee on the Plan for New York and its Environs.

Control of subdivisions developed outside the city limits is reported by four of the cities. Definite control over development

Indiana Plan of Tax Control Is Successful

Judge William A. Hough, of the Indiana Tax commission, which under the Indiana law has the power of review over all state and local bond issues and tax levies, is preparing an account of the Indiana plan of control of tax expenditure, and of the results in savings of millions of dollars of public monies which has resulted in that state from the adoption of the plan. The account will be issued as a special pamphlet by the national association in its campaign to call public attention to the rapidly increasing tax burden entailed by state and local expenditure.

The pamphlet will be ready by November 1. Forty-four states have already made inquiries of the Indiana tax commission as to the working of the Indiana plan of safeguarding the state against possible extravagance or corruption in tax levies and bond issues, Judge J. J. Brown, chairman of the tax commission, states.

Next Year Will Find Four Skyscrapers Rearing Their Heads, Showing Unprecedented Growth, Say City Officials

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff.

If figures talk, there are some in the Glendale building and street departments that shout progress. Six building jobs now under construction within the city limits total $1,266,000, as shown by figures furnished by H. C. Vandewater, building superintendent; and six street jobs now under way here total $1,265,000, according to statistics furnished by John F. Johannsen, street superintendent and city engineer.

Here are the six big building jobs for which permits have been issued and which are now being rushed to completion:

Four Proposed Skyscrapers

In addition to the numerous big building and street jobs now under way in the city of Glendale, several important undertakings will start soon. Here are four proposed structures that will change the 1925 skyline, with the approximate cost of each:

Eight-story building, Brand and Colorado boulevard, $750,000.

High school, northwest section, $500,000.

Hotel, Brand boulevard and California avenue, $400,000.

If You Want Atmosphere, Here It Is

This "SPANISH ADAPTION" is a classic, nearing completion. Located at 1243 N. Rossmoyne Ave. on a sightly lot 63x148, facing Julio Drive, and the "ELLIPSE," destined to be surrounded with attractive homes of the best in design and construction, in the de luxe residential section of the Southland. We have fifty lots in Rossmoyne, where we are building high class homes of varied designs, all standard of construction, and this offering is a typical type.

A Spanish Home with rooms surrounding a private patio in the rear! Each of the six rooms in the house has windows on two exposures, the inner patio allowing plenty of windows without spoiling the "Spanish" exterior.

A wide cloister fronts the living room with the charming arches opening toward the street.

This covered porch is indeed a rarity in Spanish architecture, and has been carried out in a manner to beautify the structure.

The living room has a high barreled ceiling, textured plastered walls and built-in "Spanish" bookshelves.

The dining room is artistically decorated, and opens off the patio, enabling the hostess of the house to serve tea out under an awning.

The house is to be heated with electrically controlled gas unit furnaces, and, as usual with the "HOMECRAFTS" Homes, the plumbing invites the most careful inspection.

The price of this gem NOW is $15,000, with terms.

Look for the red tile roof.

EAGLE ROCK LOTS SELLING RAPIDLY

Many Seeking Homesite In Silverwood Tract, Is Report of Builder

The Silverwood Happyland tract, situated at the corner of Townsend avenue and Yosemite drive in Eagle Rock has developed into one of the most active centres of home building in Southern California.

This subdivision was formerly the site of the beautiful home of the late Mr. Silverwood, Los Angeles merchant and composer of the famous song, "California." It was quickly and successfully handled by R. C. Blackmer, realtor, who found a brisk market among homeseekers who desired a spot of peace and beauty.

O. G. Angelillo has charge of the erection of stucco houses over the entire subdivision. He has just finished the construction of four 5-room bungalows that are characteristic of the best that money can buy. Only the best of materials have been used, and modern conveniences have been installed.

Mr. Angelillo is now constructing four more houses of this type and placing them on the market. He is a builder and contractor with years of experience. His work is not confined to Eagle Rock, although examples of his creative skill are to be seen in many sections of that community.

HOME DEMAND SHOWS INCREASE

Homecrafts Company Adds To Building Program In Rossmoyne

The Homecrafts corporation, 416 East Colorado street, has added to its already big building organization in order to keep pace with their most extensive high class home building program. The company has a number of fine residences under construction in Rossmoyne, some nearing completion, some sold from plans.

With the assured enormous influx of visitors to Southern California during the coming months, homes of the better type and distinctive design will be much in demand. The company owns fifty lots in Rossmoyne and plans to build homes of distinction and standard construction as rapidly as can be done consistently.

Week's Sales Heavy

From the viewpoint of the company the building operations are devoid of the speculative, as the continued growth of Glendale necessitates new homes accordingly and houses designed, built and located such as they have to present, will find ready sale.

During the week sales of Glendale houses and lots in excess of $35,000 were made through the real estate department of the company, indicating stimulating activity in the local field.

DETWILER APARTMENT COMPLETED

ANNOUNCING

The Opening of the

DETWILER APARTMENTS

At 124 West Eulalia

Having exhausted every means to build apartments, in keeping with the most modern concepts of design and construction we now take pleasure in announcing the completion of the Detwiler apartments.

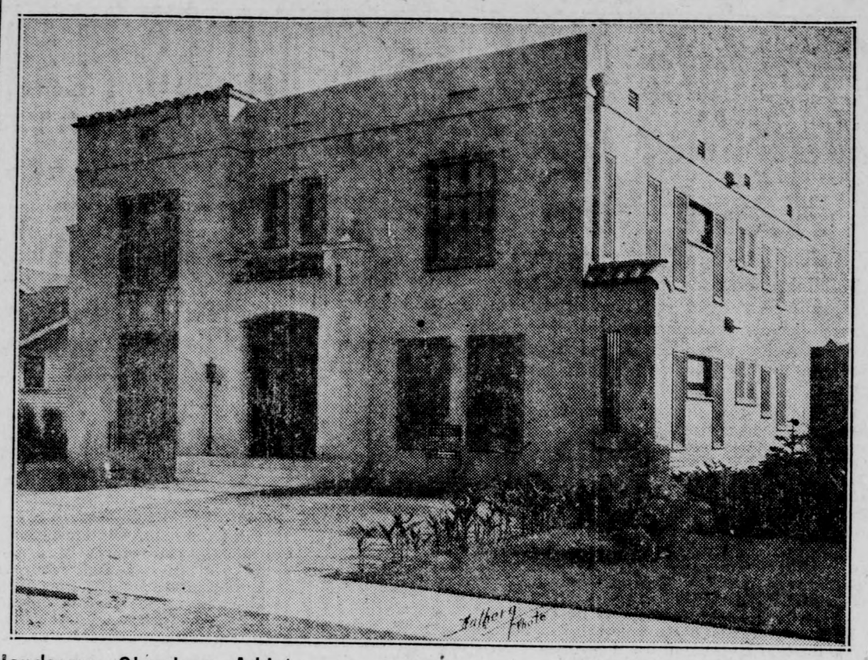
Feeling that we have contributed to the beauty of a handsome city we feel it is keeping with one's community pride to state that the Detwiler Apartments have the acme of twentieth century convenience besides being commodious and finished with delicate taste.

They comprise:

4 rooms—tile bath, and shower; gas steam heating unit; breakfast nook; refrigerator; Murphy-in-a-door bed; New Process bottomless oven; roof vents; spacious garages.

We wish to extend to you an invitation to visit the apartments at your convenience.

The four unit Detwiler Apartment House situated on West Eulalia is now completed at a cost of $15,000.00. The commodious building is composed of four units of four spacious rooms to each unit.



Handsome Structure Adds To Beauty of City; Is Credit to Builder

The Detwiler apartments which have been under construction for several months are now completed. Situated at 124 West Eulalia this handsome apartment building does credit to its builders and owners. On being congratulated on the design, and commodious character of the building, Mr. LeRoy Detwiler and wife said: "We have, in fact we are still receiving the most complimentary expressions on the building. We desired apartments that were actually deserving of the name "modern," and we think we have really succeeded in getting our wish. The four apartments have every imaginable built-in and convenience known to the building world. We have spared nothing that would tend to make every room more comfortable, more convenient, and more in keeping with a twentieth century home."

The Detwiler building is composed of four apartments of four rooms in each apartment. Of Spanish architecture, finished in California stucco the building is indeed a credit to the well known architect and designer, Alfred Priest.

The outside finish of mission pink will harmonize beautifully with the nursery, shrubbery, flowers and lawn that it is the intention of the proprietors to plant immediately. The roof is of rich varicolored Granada tile, while the front of the building is given quite an artistocratic appearance by a massive front window that runs to the second floor.

The first convenience of the building is experienced with the opening of the front doors by a Straub door pull which is exceptionally handy both for host and visitor. The rooms are floored with hardwood throughout. There is every kind of built-in fixture, with a Murphy In-a-Door bed. The living and dining rooms are combined and hung with solid brass electric fixtures, with statuary bronze and polychrome finish. There are no less than fifteen windows in each apartment. A private hall leads to the kitchen, bedroom and bath. The bath room is finished in tile, with enameled recess tub, which is directly connected with the cesspool, has shower and linen closets. In the kitchen there is a tile sink, New Process bottomless oven, breakfast nook and a deep commodious cooler.

The apartments are pleasant and cool on the hottest days, owing to the large 18-feet vents installed on the roof, sides, rear and front.

Somewhat unique are the large number of base electric plugs, and quite attractive the ornamental lamp on the front porch. The driving into the large garages at night is made easier by the outside lighting that Mr. Detwiler has installed.

"You see," remarked Mrs. Detwiler, "we have anticipated the most exacting tastes in our choice of the wallpaper. And if you will notice we have used vilrolite enamel throughout."

The wallpaper and internal finishings are exquisite, showing delicate and cultured choice. An up-to-date sprinkling system is to be installed in the lawn. The building costs somewhat over $15,000.

Electrical House Has Long Record In Construction Of Apparatus

Twenty-two years in business in this district is the fine record of the Verdugo Electric Co., the electrical contractors who so satisfactorily completed the electrical work on the Detwiler apartment building on Eulalia street.

M. L. Walton is an expert in his line. He is especially busy supervising several large electrical contracts now being undertaken by the Verdugo Electrical Co.

Swaner Cement Contractor Kept Busy on Large Apartment House

"I was considerably well pleased with the results of my connections in the building of the Detwiler apartments," said Mack Swaner, the cement contractor who handled the entire cement work on the Detwiler apartment building. "The structure is an adjunct to the Gateway section of Glendale and does credit to Mr. Detwiler."

Mack Swaner is a cement contractor of long standing in Glendale and Los Angeles. He is at present completing a large contract on the Emerson Apartment house in Los Angeles. He is located at 115, West Cerritos street.

Features Supplied by the Mission Lighting and Feature Company

The artistic fixtures in the Detwiler apartments were supplied by the Mission Lighting and Fixture Co. of Figueroa street, Los Angeles. Of extraordinary design and handsome finish these fixtures are in strict harmony with the general tasteful interior decorations.

The Mission Lighting and Fixture Co. is having a heavy call for these lines of electric fixtures, owing to their unusual beauty.

Architecure and Plans of Detwiler Apartments By A. Priest

With the completion of the Detwiler apartment building Alfred F. Priest adds another handsome structure to his long list of architectural accomplishments. The building is a credit to himself and the profession.

Mr. Priest, an architect and resident of Glendale, filled the bill to the letter, according to Mr. Detwiler. "I wanted a building with plenty of light and room for families," said Mr. Detwiler, "and the plans suited my wishes in every detail. Mr. Priest is an able architect and I was fortunate in obtaining his professional services."

Naturally the demand for the professional advice and skill of Alfred F. Priest is general throughout Southern California. He is at present constructing some major buildings in Los Angeles besides his usual undertakings in Glendale.

RIVERSIDE FAIR LACKS BIG THRILL

Quarantine Laws Prevent Usual Display of Cattle At Annual Event

By MARIAN MARSHALL

For Southland News Service.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 11.—Would that the smelly goats were here; would that the pigs were grunting and squealing and the prize bovine mooing and munching their cud at the Southern California fair this year.

That is the wail of the management as it reviews the receipts and awards the prizes for the best agricultural exposition and racing meet ever staged in the history of the Riverside fair.

There is no question but that the livestock, particularly the chickens of the feathered variety, were the largest drawing cards and because of quarantine regulations these classifications were cut from competition.

The fair has been a success, but not the financial success anticipated. It lacked animation except for the horse racing and cowboy riders. Visitors were more numerous. The governor lent his presence. The International Date Show and Southwest Cotton exposition were all that could be desired.

From far off Humboldt county, for instance, came handicraft from the redwoods, dairy displays, merino wool exhibits and other industrial and agricultural representations; from Utah there were more displays; the apples of the San Jacinto mountains, dates from Coachella, almonds from Banning, and a miscellaneous assortments of minerals, all revealing the actual wealth of the west, were present, as were automobiles and commercial exhibits.

But the real thrill of the county fair was lacking, it seemed. Next year it is hoped to have the cows and chickens, the hogs and the sheep. That's what the people want to see.

Far-Sighted Cities Boost Suburban Area

of subdivisions within the city limits is now in the hands of the authorities in twelve cities, through restrictions of zoning ordinances as to height of buildings, use, and the like. Of the fourteen cities reporting no subdivision control one is considering legislation to create control, and one mentions good results of private restrictions.

Zoning is in force in sixteen of the cities within the city limits, and in the case of two cities the zoning provisions extend to new subdivisions within three miles of the city limits. Necessity for such zoning outside the city limits is suggested in the replies.

County Parks Planned

County park commissions are already providing for parks in territory surrounding three cities. The city plan commission in one city is at work on a project for extra-mural park provision looking to the community's future. One city has a plan nearing completion.

Co-ordination of main thoroughfares outside the city with those within its limits is a problem that is beginning to demand solution. Separate traffic highways for automobile freight outside the city is one suggestion. Trolley problems and bill-board control are other matters which are coming under scrutiny of New York suburban planning.

GARMENT SHOP TO LARGER QUARTERS

Mrs. Wragg Moves Stock From 209 East Broadway To New Location

Mrs. A. M. Wragg, proprietor of Wragg Ladies' Garment Shop, announces the removal of her stock of women's apparel from 209 East Broadway to the new store building which has just been completed at 507 East Broadway, one-half block east of the postoffice.

The new building that Mrs. Wragg now occupies is a double brick store building, 25x40 feet. It will enable her to better display her merchandise for women, which includes hosiery, underwear, house dresses and other articles.

A new feature which Mrs. Wragg is installing at this time is a woman's exchange department which is for women who do handy work, fancy work and make mesh bags. It is an exchange where women can bring those things that they have made and which they wish sold.

figures in the office of H. C. Vandewater, building superintendent, the total stands at over $8,000,000.

Much Work Accomplished

Street work totaling $558,412 was completed in Glendale during 1923. This year to date, according to the official records of John F. Johannsen, $1,175,213 worth of street work has been completed, in addition to over $1,000,000 worth of work under construction at the present time.

In short, the statistics of the building and street departments reveal that Glendale is enjoying a period of unprecedented growth and prosperity.

"It is a quiet period only in the minds of speculators who cannot be satisfied with legitimate profits or reasonable increases in values," is the way Mr. Vandewater sums up the situation. "To those of us who are in daily contact with the records of activity, Glendale is forging ahead as never before."

Heart and Home — Health and Happiness

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

E. D.—The hard lumps forming in your neck are probably enlarged lymph glands. The lymph glands are filtering stations and evidently yours are overworked and have become infected from some source of poisoning in your body, either general or local. For the most common sources, look to your scalp and see if you have pediculi (common name, lice); (Don't be offended, please. The most cleanly persons get 'em accidentally. I had two vigorous crops overseas.) Have your teeth examined for decay and abscesses and pyorrhoea; have your tonsils examined for infections. Enlarged glands in the neck may also mean glandular tuberculosis. Go to a reliable physician and have a thorough examination.

CALORIC VALUE OF SOFT DRINKS—

Mrs. H.—You can reckon the approximate caloric value of soft drinks by the amount of sugar that it takes to make them so sweet as they are. Three full cubes of sugar are 100 calories. The ordinary plain soda I would reckon about 75 to 100 calories, wouldn't you?

EAT AND GROW THIN?—

"My dear Doctor—My husband and I are both 40 years old and both overweight. My weight is 185 and his 228. We are both well and love to eat. Can you give us an idea on how to lose without having to stop eating? I have lots of fat through my hips. Perhaps you can suggest an exercise for that. I take a cold shower every morning.

"Can you tell me what bath salts are? They look to me like perfumed washing soda. Would there be any danger in using them too much? Sincerely.—M. S."

Yes, you can lose without having to stop your present habits of eating, Mrs. S., if you will increase your exercises and physical work enough to use up the excess food and some of your excess fat at the same time. Some of the Maine lumbermen eat as high as 9000 calories a day. You and hubby should go to the Maine woods and chop down some trees—or do some similar work. Seriously, you don't have to stop eating to reduce, Mrs. S. You DO have to stop eating so much rich food. It isn't always how much you eat but what you eat that counts. In other words it isn't always the quantity but the quality. You are fond of rich deserts, rich gravies, candy, rich salads, and lots of bread and butter, I'll wager. Swear off on the rich deserts and take nothing but fruit for desert; allow yourself no more than two slices of bread or two medium potatoes, and one-half pat of butter a day. You should eat a pound to a pound and one-half of green vegetables, a pound of fruit, two glasses of skim or buttermilk and two or three tablespoonfuls of cottage cheese or some meat or eggs daily. All these will furnish you some food to eat, certainly.

The cold baths or showers are excellent. Keep 'em up.

You and friend hubby should have no difficulty in reducing so long as you are both overweight. You can run a race with each other. If you missed our instructions in the paper, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope (s. a. s. e.) and ten cents in stamps and request our booklet on reducing. Ask for the atonic abdominal wall article also.

BATH SALTS. The danger in using bath salts too much would be in the drying of your skin. Just enough to soften the water slightly is enough. You are right about their composition.

M. C.—Send for our article on tuberculosis.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. s. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

M. E. B.: "Lemon-Grapefruit Pie: Put into a saucepan one and one-half cups of boiling water, and two tablespoons of cornstarch; cook four minutes, then add one cup of granulated sugar, two beaten egg yolks, butter size of a hickory nut, a pinch of salt, the juice of one-half lemon, and also the juice of one-half grapefruit. (If desired, orange juice may be used instead of the lemon juice.) Let boil up till thickened, then cool slightly and turn into a baked under crust. Beat the two egg whites stiff with two even teaspoons of confectioners' sugar and spread this over the top. Return pie to oven for a few minutes to brown meringue."

"To Make One Flaky Pie Crust (Also contributed by M. E. B.): Sift together one cup of ordinary bread flour, one-fourth teaspoon of baking powder and one-half teaspoon of salt. With the fingers work in three level tablespoons of lard. Then add three tablespoons of cold water (ice water is best). I use as little water as possible, so as to make the crust flaky, and three tablespoons are about enough to make it hold together. Double this recipe for two crusts. Roll out on slightly floured board into circular shape and lift onto a pie pan. Stick all over with a fork and bake for about fifteen minutes in a very hot oven. It should be brown and tender. Then put in your lemon pie filling or whatever other filling is desired."

"Old Philadelphia Dutch Cake (for breakfast) (Contributed by Mrs. S. V.): Heat one quart of sweet milk with one and one-half pounds of granulated sugar, and let cool slightly. As it cools, put into a mixing bowl the following ingredients: Four well beaten eggs, one grated nutmeg, and one-fourth pound of soft butter and one-fourth pound of soft lard. Stir well together, then add the tepid sweetened milk alternately with two quarts of flour which have been sifted with six teaspoons of baking powder. Mix all well together and bake in buttered pans, for about twenty-five minutes in a hot oven."

Mrs. P.: "To decorate a frosted cake prettily for a party, dip cluster raisins in boiled white frosting and lay on cake, then cover with more frosting."

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

BUTTERFLY

By KATHLEEN NORRIS. Copyright, 1924.

CHAPTTR LXXV

"Well, of course, Sis, Craig had grown up with these eopie; he didn't take them seriously. I did. I wanted to go them one better, to get into the very inner ring. Jimmy Madson and I led a white baa-lamb right up the Avenue one day; and I went to the Fishers' ball as a beauty-parlor; it seems so silly now, when I had so much, when I only had to be decent and dignified to have everything worth while!"

"Butterfly, but if you have found it out, even late, isn't it all right now?" Hilary said, tenderly.

"No, because I've broken the charm — brushed away the bloom," Dora answered, seriously. "Burned my wings!" she added, whimsically. "Butterflies don't get new wings, you know!"

"Perhaps they go back into the chrysalis sometimes, and come out lovelier than ever?" Hilary suggested.

"Ah, Sis, how sweet you are. You would like to have it that way, I think," Butterfly said, with an April smile. "No, I can't go back. I can't make Craig forget what a giddy, frantic little fool I've been. If I stopped short of that last piece of insanity—but I didn't. He doesn't believe me now. He hardly listens to me. He's kind, and if—if I should be ill for months, if I should lose my baby, he'd always take care of me, he'd never reproach me. I don't think he'll even remind me of what I said—that I wanted to leave him, that I was going away. You—you don't know how good he is. He seems like one of the others, just a handsome man who plays bridge and golf, and wears correct clothes, and knows about the operas and plays and books—but he's good with it all. He's just. I've hurt him; I've disillusioned him once and for all. And that first love—the love I had on that wonderful trip to Europe, and when we first came home—that'll never come back!"

Hilary was impressed. She had never heard Butterfly talk in quite this strain before; she thought back, over three bewildering days of revelations and adjustments, and wondered if the flaming ecstasy that bound Konrad and herself together would ever be succeeded by a different love. Even now, she knew that it would. She remembered the sober, hard, self-denying years that her parents had known, that had bound her to them and to Dora, and she knew that joy is not the greatest gift of life. Some day Konrad might see her weary, discouraged, agonizing over a delicate child, with a gray thread here and there in her heavy braids, with a back that could not so magnificently stand the strain of three hours—four hours—at the piano. Some day she might see him less of a favorite, bewildered and depressed, aging—her heart closed over the thought in a spasm of love and jealousy! Oh, to be his wife, his comforter, his companion then, when all the world forgot or ignored him; to have him beside her then, when he belonged no longer to his public, but to his home, and his children, and to her!

"Sis," Butterfly asked, in the silence, "do you suppose it could come back? Do you suppose that what Craig first loved in me he might love again?"

"You mean that you've never stopped loving him, Butterfly?" Hilary asked, with a great hope flooding her heart.

"I mean that I never really loved him, Craig himself, until these last few months," Dora answered, slowly, feeling for words. "Just for what he is, apart from the money and the position, and what he can give me. I'm dying for him. Hilary!" Dora's eyes brimmed with tears, and her lips shook. "I watch him—his mouth, and his gray eyes, and Hilary—he is good to everyone but me," Butterfly faltered, her voice breaking. "He smiles at his mother; he adores you. I see him at dinners, talking away to the women next to him. But when he turns to me there's a change—a cloud, or a film, I don't know what to call it! He looks old, and patient and tired, whenever he speaks to me. I—Sis I feel sometimes as if I couldn't bear it! I feel that I am going to die when my baby comes, or to grieve myself to death afterward, as my mother did! When I see our old pictures on the steamer, or in Paris, or those Southampton pictures—I can't look at them! Sh-sh!" she ended, warningly, as Mrs. Spaulding began to fumble in the darkness at the back of the box. A moment later the black-enveloped and veiled form settled itself on a chair with a hoarse whisper of reassurance. Dora did not turn, her face was not visible in the gloom. As for Hilary, she heard nothing, knew nothing, saw nothing except that the figure of a tall man with black hair was making its way between the orchestra chairs, and that the house was beginning the generous applause that always greeted Kronski.

"Tell me about it!" Butterfly commanded, cheerfully.

She flung out her arm to give a basket-chair beside her an inviting touch, and Craig took it thankfully. One of April's treacherously hot and enervating days had fallen upon the city; the long morning hours had passed in shining glory over the unprepared restaurants and theatres and shops, suddenly lowered awnings had been unfurled like an army with banners, to meet the glare, and open motor-cars waited outside the hotels.

Dora was on a second-story porch at the southwestern side of the old mansion, a porch where several potted ferns and a miniature feathery bamboo shared the wicker chairs under a gay awning. Below her was the privacy of her own and a few other conservative old backyards, where collies tramped and yawned, and where a baby-carriage or two sometimes moved before a uniformed nurse; and in these stood some magnificent trees, whose little damp first foliage had wilted into limpness today in the first strong heat.

"What a day to sail!" she said, with a sort of joyous envy. "But tell me, tell me all about it!"

"You were wise not to attempt it—it's an awful day!" Craig assured her, surprised and marvellously heartened by her philosophic gaiety. He could not know that Hilary, smothering her sister with a kiss some three hours before, had said, in final guidance: "Now remember, my darling, just how merry and enthusiastic and interested you used to be with Craig four years ago, and pretend that he is that same strange young man that you couldn't believe was really going to fall in love with you!"

"But, Sis," Butterfly had stammered, clinging tight to the fragrant and radiant vision that was Hilary, "how can I? I'm losing you, now when I've just found you, when I know how dearly I love you!"

"You can never lose me now, Butterfly," Hilary had answered, tenderly. "You lost me infinitely more when you married, because the love was all on my side then."

"Ah, but if I could go back, Hilary, and just have some of those days with you all over again!"

DOBINSON'S PLAYERS

Mary Isabelle Alpaugh as "Gladys Prouty," who has a "swell job" in the ribbon department of a big store, and Richard Ehlers, who portrays the character of "Shorty" of "movin' pitcher" fame, in the peppy comedy, "A Prince There Was," have won the audiences at every performance of Dobinson's Players at the Club theatre and at each entrance are greeted with laughter.

In "The Country Cousin," which will have its premiere next Wednesday matinee, October 15, their characterization will be entirely opposite to their present roles, as Ehlers is to be one of the featured players together with beautiful Rosamonde Joyzelle, especially engaged for this comedy, and Gertrude Kellar.

THE GATEWAY

There are more bow-legged actors on Broadway than any other place in the world, casting director at the Famous Players Long Island studio, discovered while casting men to appear as lackeys, servants, guards, soldiers and courtiers in "Monsieur Beaucaire," the Paramount picture of Booth Tarkington's story, in which Rudolph Valentino has the title role. All the men in the picture wear knee-length silk breeches, for the story is laid in Louis XV's time, and bow-legs just do not look good in silk breeches.

Scores of applicants were looked over in an effort to find straight limbed men. All those with a slight crook at the knee were rejected. After much careful picking fifty men were found with legs suitable for the costumes.

"Monsieur Beaucaire," Valentino's first screen appearance since 1922, comes to the Gateway theatre for a run of three days Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Featured in the strong supporting cast are Bebe Daniels, Lois Wilson, Doris Kenyon and Lowell Sherman.

THE T. D. & L.

"The Fast Set" concludes today at the T. D. & L. theatre. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the feature is Marion Davies in "Yolanda."

THE GLENDALE

"Tiger Thompson" with Harry Carey concludes today at the Glendale Theatre. Sunday to Thursday, inclusive, the feature is Emory Johnson's "The Spirit of the U. S. A.," with Mary Carr and Johnnie Walker.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE FALLING LEAVES

The telephone in Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow rang "ting-a-ling" one day. Nurse Jane was soon talking to Mrs. Twistytail, the lady pig.

"Oh, I would love to come over and visit you," said the muskrat lady, "but I'm afraid to go through the woods alone. You know the Bob Cat nearly caught Uncle Wiggily yesterday. Only that Mr. Turtle kindly nipped the bad chap's silly little tail, Uncle Wiggily's ears would have been nibbled. Since then the Bob Cat has been hiding in the woods waiting to catch Uncle Wiggily.

"And I'm afraid Mrs. Twistytail, that if I went through the woods to your house, the Bob Cat might get me. So I had better not come over to see you. And you, also, had best stay in your pen. We don't want the Bob Cat to catch us."

"What's this about Bob Cats?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who came into the room just as Nurse Jane finished talking over the telephone. So the muskrat lady told him.

"Nonsense!" laughed the bunny rabbit gentleman. "If you want to visit Mrs. Twistytail, I'll go with you. I'll take you through the woods. Come on!"

"But what about the Bob Cat?" asked Nurse Jane. "The Bob Cat is hiding in the woods to get you. Uncle Butter, the goat, told me he saw the bad chap."

"I'm not afraid!" laughed brave Uncle Wiggily. "I'll take some sticky fly paper with me and if the Bob Cat comes to get us I'll stick him!"

"Oh, but you are brave!" murmured Nurse Jane, her eyes shining with pride. "Now I'm not afraid."

So, taking a bit of sticky fly paper to catch the Bob Cat with, in case he ran after them, Uncle Wiggily walked with Nurse Jane through the woods to the home of Mrs. Twistytail, the lady pig. And the Bob Cat didn't slink after them in the least.

"I don't believe the Bob Cat is in the woods at all!" said Uncle Wiggily, when he had safely seen Nurse Jane to the door of the pig pen. "I shall throw away the fly paper."

This he did, but on the way home, all of a sudden, he heard a rustling in the bushes and out popped the Bob Cat.

"Ha! Ha!" snickered the bad chap. "I didn't dare jump out at you, Uncle Wiggily, while Nurse Jane was with you. I thought maybe she might stick me with her needles and pins. But now that you are alone I'm going to nibble your ears."

"Oh, don't! Please don't!" begged the bunny. Away he hopped as fast as he could hop, but the Bob Cat with his silly little tail ran after the rabbit. For a time Uncle Wiggily kept ahead of the bad chap, but the Bob Cat came nearer and nearer.

"Oh, what shall I do?" cried the bunny. And then the trees in the forest took pity on the poor bunny gentleman. All at once the wind shook the trees. Down showered thousands of dried leaves. The falling leaves piled on top of Uncle Wiggily and covered him from sight, as they had done years before, to the Babes in the Wood.

Along came racing the Bob Cat to where he thought Uncle Wiggily was. But all the bad chap saw was a pile of leaves.

"Bah I can't eat leaves!" snarled the Bob Cat. "Where did that rabbit go?" And all of the time Uncle Wiggily was hidden from sight under the pile of falling leaves. The Bob Cat looked here and the Bob Cat looked there but he never thought of looking under the leaves. And then, after a while, the Bob Cat slunk away.

"Thank you, kind leaves, for saving me," said the bunny, as he crawled from beneath the heap. Then he went safely home. And if the huckleberry pudding doesn't slide down the banister rail and spill the beans all over the parlor rug, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the roast apples.

Another matter in which Glendale people are interested is a more direct boulevard to Los Angeles. Tropico is paving Brand boulevard and Glendale avenue in Edendale has been paved, the two links in the chain connecting the two cities. Co-operation on the part of Los Angeles and Glendale will be the result in connecting these links by bridging the Los Angeles river.

Is this only a dream? A beautiful, large hotel nestling in the foothills of North Glendale.

There are now ninety streets in Glendale.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S BIBLE COURSE
Conducted by REV. C. H. CHRISMAN
GOSPEL TABERNACLE CHURCH
Louise and Chestnut
Sunday Nights, 6:30 to 7:30 o'clock

V—TEN REASONS FOR BELIEVING THE BIBLE

1—We believe the Bible to be the Word of God because of its indestructibility. No book has ever been attacked like the Bible. Brilliant men, skeptics, atheists, agnostics, have bitterly fought it from the beginning. And yet, today, it stands alone as the world's "best seller." During the past ten years more than 240,000,000 copies have been sold in more than 500 different dialects. To destroy it one would have to purchase at least 60,000,000 copies and then ravish the libraries of our great cities to destroy its quotations, so is it woven into the literature of the world.

2—The Bible should be believed because its writers claimed it was the Word of God. Their testimony on all other subjects leads us to the conclusion that they were good men. Being good men, they could not lie about its authorship. They claimed that the authorship was Divine. Wicked men could not have written it. From beginning to end it bears the stamp of Deity. So great and lofty is its principles that had a human being been the author he most certainly would have claimed the honor.

3—The Bible describes the human heart of all ages and of all lands with unerring accuracy. When hearing it read many a native of China and Africa has declared, "Someone has learned all about me and has written it down in a book." Often has a Chinese scholar assisting in the translation of the Scriptures been led to exclaim "He who made this Book made me."

4—Although the oldest book in existence it stands foremost in the field of literature and in the noblest intellects of all ages has won for itself the pre-eminent title, "the Book." Such was it called by Sir Walter Scott, Gladstone, Carlyle, John Stuart Mill and a host of others. The great moral principles taught by Shakespeare, Hugo, Wordsworth, Browning, Elliot, Thackeray, Tennyson, Dickens and Ruskin were obtained from the Bible.

5—The Bible should be accepted as the Word of God because of its prohibitions which are so utterly foreign to human nature. It commands, 'Thou shalt not kill, thou shalt not commit adultery, thou shalt not steal, thou shalt not bear false witness." It pronounces an awful penalty upon unrepentant fornicators, thieves, drunkards, revilers, extortioners and liars. It sternly denounces idolatry of all kinds and by all people, and since the great majority of people of all time are idolators in a greater or lesser degree this law could never have sprung from the human heart.

6—We should believe the Bible because it is the only Book that unlocks human mystery. The four greatest questions a man ever put to his own soul are these: Who am I? Where am I? Where did I come from? Where am I going? Neither science nor philosophy can answer them. What is life? They cannot tell us. When a man dies life goes out of him. What is it that goes out of him? Life. What is life? The thing that makes a man dead when it goes out. This is as far as science and philosophy can go. But the Bible tells me where I came from? It tells me that life is the product of the creative hand of God. It tells me about my own existence, what I am here for and where I am going.

7—It should be believed because of what it has accomplished. Wherever it has been sincerely accepted in the heart it has banished immorality, violence, bloodshed, deceit, theft, and all disorderly conduct. The moral tone of a community that accepts and practices the precepts of the Bible is as high above a community without it as the heavens are higher than the earth.

8—Because of its scientific accuracy. While the object of the Bible is not to teach science it is never inaccurate in its statements of scientific facts. The Bible teaches that the earth is round, the circulation of the blood, the mysteries of the solar system, that light was created before the sun and many other facts science.

9—Because it is the only Book that reaches the need of the human heart. It is God's book because it is man's book. There is not a kind of heart anywhere that the Bible does not reach. It offers me goodness in place of badness, joy in place of sorrow and hope in place of despair. There is not a circumstance of life upon which it does not throw its gleam of light. It has been the comfort and consolation of countless thousands of the best people of all time.

10—It should be believed because of the character it portrays, Christ the God-man. Had the Bible been of human origin the inventor of such a character as Jesus would have been greater than the character he invented. Note the testimony of the immortals: "Repose now in thy glory, noble Founder, Thy work is finished. Thy divinity is established. Between Thee and God there will be no longer any distinction"—Renan. Strauss said, "There is no perfect piety possible without His presence in the heart." Spinoza said, "Christ was the temple of God, because in Him has God most fully revealed Himself." Byron said, "If ever God was man or man God, He was both." Jean Paul Richter said, "He is the mightiest among the holy and the holiest among the mighty." And to these could be added the names of thousands of others who did not follow Him, yet, who believed in the divinity of His character.

The subject for Sunday night Oct. 12, will be, "The Symbols of the Bible." All young people invited. The course is repeated for adults on Wednesday nights at 7 o'clock.

THE U. S. GOVERNMENT SAYS REZNOR HAS NO CARBON MONOXIDE

Most of the fatalities that have occurred in the last few years in the gas heating field, were due to the introduction of gas burners that produce carbon monoxide.

The Bureau of Standards at Washington, after a scientific test, find the Reznor Reflector Gas Heaters do not produce carbon monoxide. Thus, they are absolutely safe.

That's why, in thirty-five years we have never had a case of gas poisoning on account of improper combustion from a Reznor Reflector Gas Heater.

Varying gas analyses or gas pressures do not affect combustion—the Reznor continues to function perfectly—indefinitely—nothing to clog or get out of adjustment.

And the Reznor Reflector will heat a room more evenly in less time and on just as little gas as any type heater ever made.

The Reznor Reflector has all the advantages and none of the disadvantages of the blue flame type.

LITTLE NAPOLEON OF BASEBALL LEADS RETREAT

GIANTS SAY FATE WAS UNKIND

Players Debonair In Defeat After Getting Back to Their Home Town

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Something after the manner of Napoleon's historic retreat from Moscow, the chastened New York Giants arrived in town this morning on an overnight train from Washington, secretly convinced that the better team lost, but publicly giving due credit to the Senators for their victory in the world series.

Strange to say they were almost debonair in defeat. The so-called Little Napoleon, John J. McGraw, hardly presented the aspect of the dejected, slumped-over figure that a great artist painted of that earlier retreat. He wasn't jubilant; neither was he forlorn.

Somehow, the Giants had arrived at the conclusion that Fate, as much as the Senators, had beaten them and at the same time the individual players were quick to shoulder what blame was theirs.

"I let Harris' hit in the eighth play me," said young Fred Lindstrom. "I grooved one for Harris in the third," declared Barnes. "I should have been able to get that mask out from under my feet," quoth Gowdy. And so it went. There was little or no blame to be taken, and the players took it.

Think They're Good

Although careful to avoid committing themselves to the effect, the Giants to a man still believed they were the best ball club.

A tip-off on their attitude was the fact that few of them carried hand baggage, this being not a case of neglect, but of supreme self-confidence. When the club departed for Washington to play the sixth game, George Kelly didn't even carry a toothbrush. He expected to be on his way to New York the night of the sixth game, with the series ended and the Giants the winner.

Perhaps the men who have taken the defeat the hardest are the most jubilant, that, in particular, applying to John J. McGraw, a hard opponent at all times.

Glendale Fans Know Where To Get Service First And Best

This picture, taken by Dolberg studio while the ninth inning was being announced in the world series game yesterday, shows but a portion of the crowd of 3,000 fans gathered in front of The Glendale Evening News building. Many hundreds of other fans were parked on the east side of Brand, both in cars and on the sidewalks. The first game of the world series taught the fans that The Glendale Evening News was the ONLY newspaper in Glendale giving a REAL service on the Giants-Senators clash. So, naturally, ALL the fans in Glendale "witnessed" the world series games in front of this newspaper's big three-story building at 139 South Brand. The Glendale Evening News, with its International News Service wire DIRECT to the grounds, gave every play in the series. The fans know baseball; they know service; they know The Glendale Evening News—that's why ALL the fans in Glendale "saw" the games in front of this newspaper's home.

PIN ARTISTS TO START ON MONDAY

Foothill Bowling League With Twelve Teams to Start Lengthy Tournament

The Foothill Bowling league will get under way at the Recreation alleys Monday night, according to an announcement made today by Pete Neise. John Weber is president of the league, with H. Levy officiating as vice president, D. Dawson as secretary and Pete Neise as treasurer.

There are twelve teams in the league. Hollywood, Pasadena and Glendale will be represented by four teams from each city. Games will be played on Monday and Wednesday nights of each week, and the tournament will last twenty-two weeks.

The four teams entered from Glendale are: Pullman Cafe, Gateways, strong contenders in the City Bowling league last summer; Glendale Tile & Mantel Co., also a factor in the City loop, and the Carlocks, who worried the best in the summer tournament.

The opening game will bring the Gateways and the Pullman Cafe team together, while the Carlocks and the Tilers are scheduled to play Wednesday night.

Young Nationalista Is Awarded Verdict

Young Nationalista won the decision over Eddie McKenna in last night's main event at Hollywood American Legion stadium. It was a tame fight all the way. Danny Martin and Frankie Posner put up a better scrap in the semi-windup, the verdict going to Martin. Kid Ponce and Billy Hart stepped to a fast draw in the special spot. Sailor Foster and Sailor Melchor slugged four rounds, Foster getting the decision. Plenty of blood flowed when Jack Hester and Eddie Crozier mixed, and the judges ruled it a draw. Kid Dallas caught a Texas leaguer on the chin, hurled by Young Nino, in the third round, and stayed on the canvas. Mickie White had an easy time winning over Hawaii Yap in the opener.

BRYAN HOLDS S. L. TO LONE HIT, RUN

Homer by Frederick Is Only Bingle Mormons Get Off Vernon Pitcher

By THREE STRIKES
For Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11.—Few were the fans to recover from the great victory for the Senators' in Washington yesterday and travel to the local ball yard and witness one of the fastest games of the season which saw Vernon snatch a triumph from the Salt Lake Bees, 2 to 1. The handful that did brave the wind rested only an hour and twelve minutes to see the youthful Ed Bryan hold the buzzing Bees to a single hit and home run by Frederick, centerfielder, in the fourth frame, which escaped the clutches of Mike Menosky only by inches to land in the bleachers.

The Essick crew scored in the first inning only on an infield single, a walk and a double by Whitney. The other bingles were all the Tigers could gather off the Mormon moundsmen. Harry O'Neil started for the visitors but was relieved by Ponder in the fourth after O'Neil gave two walks and an infield hit. Each club pulled a pair of fast double plays that helped speed the contest to a hasty finish.

Angels Near Top

The Angels broke the tie for second place in the league by taking both ends of a double header from the Portland Beavers yesterday. The first, an eleven-inning struggle, resulted 5 to 3, while the Seraphs took the twilight tilt, 2 to 1. Los Angeles is now just three games behind the league leading Seals and with eleven games to be played they will undoubtedly be a threatening element in the race.

The Seattle Indians got on the warpath yesterday and took the Seals to a trimming, 5 to 3.

Oakland defeated the Sacramento Solons in yesterday's tilt at Oakland, 9 to 6.

FIGHT RESULTS

AT CLEVELAND—Carl Tremaine, Cleveland, bantam, won decision over Charley Goodman, New York, twelve rounds.

AT NEW YORK—Lewis "Kid" Kaplan, Meriden, Conn., knocked out Angel Diaz, Canal Zone, three rounds; Phil Rosenberg outpointed Irish Johnny Curtin, New York, ten rounds; Danny Kramer, Philadelphia, knocked out Harold Farez, five rounds.

AT DENVER—Don Long, Colorado Springs, and Jimmy Hartman, Dodge City, Kan., twelve-round draw.

WHITE SOX PLAY GILMORE SUNDAY

'Ping' Bodie to Be In Local Lineup; Bob Wallace to Hurl for Visitors

Now that the world's series have been brought to a glorious close, and the Senators are sitting on the top of the baseball world, attention may once more be turned to the local diamond situation without any danger of interruption. Frank Kerwin, owner of the Glendale White Sox, has secured the Gilmore Oilers for Sunday's game at the park on San Fernando Road.

The Pacific Fleet All-Stars, who handed the White Sox the first wallop after twenty-five straight victories, were scheduled to play here tomorrow, but the game was canceled when the sailors were all ordered to San Diego for duty in connection with the reception tendered the giant dirigible, U. S. S. Shenandoah.

The Oilers have always been considered the strongest rivals of the Pale Hose crew and on several occasions have come close to hooking Kerwin's crew. A large delegation of Gilmore fans always comes to Glendale when the Oilers play here, and provide a big share of the noise.

Wallace to Pitch

Bob Wallace, former big leaguer, is slated to appear on the mound for the visitors. Wallace, on previous visits to Glendale, was hit hard by the White Sox and on one occasion was knocked out of the box. In recent games he has been going strong, getting better each game, in fact, so the Sox will not have an easy time with him tomorrow.

Bonelly, who hurled a masterful game last Sunday against the Catalina Cubs, and blanked them while his teammates were pounding in six runs, will do the pitching for the local team. Bonelly recently joined the White Sox after a successful season with the Kansas City Blues and is regarded in baseball circles as a valuable addition to the squad.

Another new face in the lineup tomorrow will be "Ping" Bodie, well known player who was with Des Moines in the Western league last summer. Ping has played in big time stuff, having devoted fifteen years of his life to professional baseball. He batted .364 last season with the Des Moines club. He is chalked up for an outfield position tomorrow.

Judge Landis In Hot Charges on Johnson

popularity and keen, close competition, constitutes the best answer to the American league head, Judge Landis said today, just before leaving for New York.

Praised by President

"He tried his best to make this series look dirty," exclaimed the judge. "He wouldn't attend—yet the president of the United States attended every game played in Washington save the Sunday game. And, while he sniped at the series afar, here is what the president of the United States says about it:

"'The contests which I witnessed maintained throughout a high degree of skill and every evidence of a high-class sportsmanship that will bring to every observer an increased respect for and confidence in our national game. It would be difficult to conceive a finer example of true sport.'"

"That is what the president of the United States said about it. Answer Johnson? I don't have to—it has been done by the president of the United States.

Inquiry Continues

"There were those, Johnson among them, who would have had me call off this series. What have they to say now? What has Johnson to say—his league won the greatest series in history in a contest which the president says, 'Will bring to every observer an increased respect for and confidence in the game.'"

Judge Landis does not intend to drop his investigation into the Dolan-O'Connell matter. That, he said today, will be pursued to the limit.

"So far as I am concerned, it will never close, so long as there remains one lead to pursue, one scent to follow. I exonerated Frisch, Kelly and Young because I believe they are honest ballplayers. Certainly their work in this series justified that belief.

"But if there are others guilty of any scandal in baseball they will be caught and punished. Baseball must and will be kept clean."

Detroit Experiences Record Building Year

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 11.—Building construction here this year will exceed that of any similar period in the history of the city. Permits issued for the first nine months totaled over $123,000,000 or more than $25,000,000 in excess of those for the similar period of 1923. Construction this year is expected to reach $163,000,000.

FOOTBALL TEAMS HAVE WORK AHEAD

Form Is Fragile Thing and Games So Far Point to Needed Practice

By LAWRENCE PERRY
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Football form is a fragile thing. Games played thus far this year are to be accepted merely as indications of what the important elevens will do when the crucial tests come and generally speaking they are apt to be misleading indications if one goes merely by scores and ignores possibilities in the way of material, coaching resources and the like.

But, speaking from a viewpoint which has encompassed not only scores but conditions existing on the various gridirons, the close follower of the game can open up a line of thought not without value to those who love to cast thought into the future.

Penn State, then, may be expected to soar high this season. Already the Blue and White is putting on a versatile and hard driving attack, using linemen as well as backs in advancing the ball. The crushing defeat of North Carolina State last week was significant of power and varied offensive resources.

Harvard, Cornell, Chicago and the Navy, are having serious trouble with their lines and those who watched Notre Dame against Lombard are not too sure that Rockne has yet developed a line capable of screening the maneuvers of a backfield which looks to be in a class with the 1925 set. As for Cornell, basing judgment upon scores alone, she should not have had the trouble she did with Niagara if all had been well at Ithaca. Looks as if Gil Dobie had some work cut out for him in line and backfield.

Columbia looks to be an added complication in the Cornell scheme this season. Percy Haughton is developing a finished scoring machine and the present status of the Blue and White is a sheer tribute to Haughton's coaching genius. Syracuse bids to be a strong factor and Colgate will bear watching.

Tigers Look Good

If Princeton can develop two tackles and a center, the Tigers are bound to go far; they have everything else. As a matter of fact, one tackle and a capable roving center are beginning to show above the ruck. If Beattie, the former back, comes through—just now he likes to follow his old backfield habits and run back of the line on defense, instead of knifing through—Princeton will be set.

Yale has got to solve some problems in the center of the line and at quarterback before she hits her stride. Pittsburgh is likely to be not so good all season—poor material. Jock Sutherland left a sound system and a lot of material behind him at Lafayette when he went to Pitt and last Saturday found it a boomerang, for the Illinois' small score against Nebraska need not be taken as indicating weakness at Illini. Zuppke's men are famous for slow, careful starts and anyway the Cornhuskers are child's play for no team.

Wisconsin with the Harmon brothers in the backfield, Captain Harris to throw the ball, and other good backs and a growing line, looms really formidable. Michigan has at last a scoring machine; we shall know more about her defense later. Alabama, Georgia, Florida and Vanderbilt are the swiftest movers in the south and on the coast, Southern California and Stanford have none of them done what was expected of them against the class B teams they have met.

The Army builds annually with the Navy game in view and it looks as if this were to be an Army year in the service. Brown, which usually develops late, has been hurried along for Chicago and will give the Maroons a hard battle.

In the Rocky Mountain area, Colorado College and Colorado University have had the most impressive start.

Business as usual—that is our argument. Forget this is presidential year, vote your sentiments, and eat, sleep, drink, take care of your health, and live your life as usual and this awful quadrennial nightmare will disappear. It won't make more than a million dollars difference to most of us anyway who is elected president. But it may make a lot of difference to our future welfare and happiness if we neglect our health as part of the general program of inactivity that seems to be a feature of election year. UNIQUE FACTORY LATEST ARRIVAL

Inventor of Mah Jongg Tally Pencil Opens Oriental Shop In Glendale

Gertrude M. Craig who created much talk among mah jongg players in Los Angeles and San Francisco a short time ago, now is a resident of Glendale, having taken up her home at 522 East Raleigh street.

Mrs. Craig, a native daughter of California, caused the mah jongg enthusiasts to talk because of her invention of the now famous mah jongg tally pencil.

During the past year she has developed a lucrative business in the manufacture of Chinese and Oriental novelties and supplies the needs of many eastern cities besides those of California. Her home on Raleigh street also serves as her factory.

China Brought Here

Here may be seen unique Oriental objects displayed in a riot of Oriental colors, bringing to Glendale a little bit of China.

On display are a unique feature called a feather duster contained in an artistic tube for the automobile boudoir, a bridge and mah jongg tally pad in brilliant coloring, a cigarette case in typical Chinese design, a sachet container for the clothes closet and dresser drawer, a flower holder for the closed car, and indexed telephone pad contained in a queue-suspended Chinese caricature.

Novel Creation

In the factory room there are boxes ready for shipment filled with Flapper Boxes, a novel creation, which Mrs. Craig says will "take the country by storm in the next few months." There are jazz charms, fly swatters fixed "to kill," and a host of other novelties.

Mrs. Harry A. James and Mrs. E. Kulp, representing the society, visited Mr. Hart at his office on Sunset boulevard yesterday morning and received his contribution for the building fund. Despite the fact that he is suffering from a broken ankle, received when he recently saved his pet dog from serious injury, Mr. Hart took an active interest in the cause of the society.

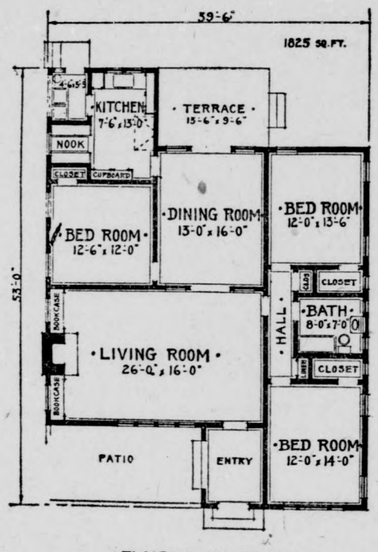
Home Is Your Advertisement

THE BENTLEY LUMBER CO., 460 Los Feliz road, is prepared to present a large assortment of plans for prospective home builders. The company has a special department for that purpose. Information is cheerfully furnished, it is announced, and inquiries are solicited.



1 FLOOR · PLAN · NO. 1924 ·

This spacious, pretentious home of more than ordinary attractiveness conveys ideas and suggestions which cannot help but make appeals to builders who are seeking distinctiveness.

While the exterior lines are plain, the special door and window details harmonize and express tastefulness.

The stucco may be applied over brick, tile, metal or wood lath or any of the composition plaster boards.

The extra porch and enclosed patio gives the exterior a true Spanish appearance. The floor plan drawing conveys quite clearly location and sizes of the rooms, together with closet space, cabinets, etc. The spare bed room, if not desired, could open into living room and used as a music, library room or den. The interior of this home contains all modern labor and time-saving conveniences, and altogether represents a home building idea that you will be making no mistake in adopting.

You can quickly tell if a home is owned by the family that lives in it. And you can easily see what kind of people they are by the appearance of that home. It is their advertisement.

You want to build a home in your city of Glendale that will be beautiful and substantial; one that will silently tell the passersby that you are proud of your family, proud of your community, and proud of your home.

The above plan is furnished by the Bentley Lumber Co., situated at 460 West Los Feliz road. Its years of practical experience aid home builders in the planning and building of homes. Its materials will insure that your home will be lasting and enduring.

REALTORS ENJOY ANNUAL BANQUET

ment spread over the Glendale group. Again Peter Hanson had taken second place, tying it with four other contestants, while to Stephen Barnson of San Diego went first honors for the art that made Demosthenes famous. Mr. Hanson's talk appeared in full in yesterday's issue of The Glendale Evening News.

To the San Francisco real estate board glee club went the Henry Parkhurst Barbour "Musical Remembrance" scroll, with the Oakland musicians receiving honorable mention for their snappy group of melody-makers.

Elect Officers

Everett A. White of Santa Ana was named president of the California Real Estate association for the short term until January 1, 1925, and Richard Ainsley of Fresno was chosen president for the long term, beginning the first of the year and continuing to January 1, 1926, Glen D. Willaman of Los Angeles was re-elected secretary and managing director of the association, E. G. Hughson of Fresno was elected treasurer and fourteen regional vice presidents were named.

Governor Friend W. Richardson, introduced by Mr. Barbour as "the man who put the ax in tax," declared that in his opinion California needs a business manager rather than a governor, and that is the way he is conducting his office. He praised the realtors for their efforts to elevate the profession.

Verdugo Poet Speaks

Speaker Frank Merriam of the state assembly praised the achievements of the California Real Estate association in the direction of protective statutes. H. Robert Ennis, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, stated that taxes are the gravest problem confronting the nation today and stressed the growing importance of Oriental trade on the Pacific coast.

John Steven McGroarty, "the poet of the green Verdugo hills," told of Junipero Serra, who came to California 154 years ago, and referred to him as "the first realtor," stating that but for his efforts the state would be Mongolian today.

Richard J. Jose, deputy real estate commissioner of San Francisco, again for the fifth consecutive year brought heart throbs and sighs when he raised that high, clear silver voice in "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and "When You and I Were Young, Maggie."

Other speakers included William May Garland of Los Angeles, Hazel M. Grant of Pasadena and Dr. Daniel F. Fox, pastor of the First Congregational church of Pasadena.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Oct. 11.—Nomination of candidates for places on the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, road improvement and fire breaks committees are scheduled for the October meeting of the Tujunga organization next Tuesday night. Nominated candidates will be voted on at the November election.

The pastorate of the community church was declared vacant by vote at the annual meeting of the congregation this week. This vote sustained a previous vote by the executive board of the church, which was taken in view of the approaching expiration of Dr. Stott's term and was in line with his desires and plans, so he said. Temporary arrangements were made to have Rev. E. W. Pasko in the pulpit until permanent arrangements can be made.

Officers elected for the coming year are: A. M. Price, W. Hicks, J. A. Jenkins, E. W. Schoch, H. F. Slayton, H. I. Farr, Helen L. Atkinson, Mary L. Lewis, financial board; Edgar W. Pasko, Dr. Stella Conner, Mr. Bixby, J. A. Jenkins, C. P. White, F. O. Hough, managing board; E. W. Schloch, Mr. Walker, A. M. Price, J. A. Jenkins, Frank O. Hough, trustees; H. H. Fraser, H. F. Slayton, W. Hicks, C. P. White, ushers; superintendent of Sunday school, J. A. Jenkins, Mr. Walker, assistant; W. Hicks, H. F. Slayton, Mrs. H. F. Slayton, house committee; Mrs. Augustus Adams, choir leader; Mrs. E. W. Schloch, pianist; Mrs. H. I. Farr, charity committee chairman; Mrs. J. A. Jenkins, president Ladies' Aid society; C. White, president Christian Endeavor; Mr. Mills and Mr. Hicks, janitors.

Mrs. Dan J. Warnick recently entertained six members of the Tujunga Women's club at tea at her home on Stevens Way. Those present were Mrs. Mark White, Mrs. Kindler, Mrs. B. B. Reynolds, Mrs. Genevieve Adams, Mrs. Leo Smith.

RAPID PROGRESS MADE ON SUBWAY

Pacific Electric Tunnel Is Expected to Be Ready For Use In Year

via the Pacific Electric railway. Hollywood already is being served by new cars which are admirably fitted for subway service.

The writer humbly suggests that civic organizations of Glendale make a bid for what is nown as the "1100" type of cars, of which the Pacific Electric has many, to serve the fastest growing city in America.

The "1100s" are a car as large as those used on the Long Beach and San Bernardino lines, but lighter. They have double entrances and exit accommodations, permitting loading just twice as fast as the "500s" now in use on the Glendale line.

Can Be Secured

Investigation reveals that the "1100s" have not been placed in service because they use more power (and make the most speed out of it) than the power supervisor would permit during the now passing shortage of hydro-electric energy.

Glendale has been well served by the "500" type cars for the last decade, and it would be a forward step to have the latest rolling stock of the Pacific Electric put in service here.

A few nice notes from the City Council, Chamber of Commerce, the service clubs, and the like, addressed to D. W. Pontius, Frank Karr, C. A. Smith and other influential officials of the Pacific Electric might have an effect similar to those remarks addressed to William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific, who personally saw to it that Glendale's interest was rewarded with a $100,000 station.
